

FLYER FORCED TO EARTH BY BAD WEATHER

Mexican Non-stop Airman Lands in North Carolina When Fog Becomes Heavy

Mooresville, N. C.—(P)—Capt Emilio Carranza, young Mexican aviator, who was forced down by fog here Tuesday on an attempted non-stop hop from Mexico City to Washington, resumed his good will flight at 1:15 Tuesday afternoon.

Mooresville, N. C.—(P)—Captain Emilio Carranza, young Mexican aviator, who was forced down here shortly before dawn Tuesday on an attempted non-stop flight, from Mexico City to Washington, announced Tuesday that he did not think that he would resume his flight to Washington Tuesday.

He said that the fog was too heavy for flying at present.

The 23-year old Latin flyer appeared to take his forced landing very hard. He was unable to say what his immediate plans were except that he expected to resume his flight as soon as the fog which forced him down at 3:30 permitted a takeoff. He was not certain whether he would proceed to New York and circle that city before taking in Washington.

His landing in the darkness here was an exhibition of skill, residents said. More than a score of automobiles provided the landing lights after residents had been awakened by the roar of his motor as he circled the city skimming the rooftops in an effort to get his bearings.

"I ran into some headwinds over the Gulf of Mexico but had little trouble until I reached Spartanburg, S. C.," he said. He was flying low and very fast over the Atlanta-New York air mail route as he passed Spartanburg.

A short distance north of that place he ran into fog and became lost. "Every now and then I had to swing around to locate myself," he said.

HOPELESSLY LOST

When he became hopelessly lost he decided to land and was approximately 30 miles east of his route when he saw the lights of Mooresville. He did not know where he was until he landed.

As he stepped out of ship, a monoplane similar to Colonel Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," the young aviator said he was "not very tired" but "awfully hungry."

Only food aboard the plane was a sandwich, a thoughtful friend had placed in the baggage carrier in Mexico City Monday morning but he couldn't get to that. It was stored in the after end of the plane and he couldn't reach it from the cockpit. He had plenty of water at hand, however.

Although he received his early education in this country, the aviator spoke in broken English. He was dressed in high top boots, a shirt open at the neck and carried an overcoat in the plane. This was the only clothing he brought, he said.

Lenroot Declines to Be Drafted as Candidate for Vice Presidency

The detrimental effects of foreign competition, and viewing the situation as representatives of the great dairy state in the Union, lay particular emphasis on the protection of butter, cheese and raw milk. They urge the party to favor the early completion of the great lakes waterway.

As spokesmen of the Progressives, Senator LaFollette, through his election as member of the resolutions committee, was to bring ideas of his group before platform makers. It was indicated that if these ideas are the fate that has been their lot in past conventions, Progressives may offer them from the floor of the convention as a minority report.

The next step in the conservative offensive against the seating of Herman L. Ekern, and Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Superior, on the national committee, was planned for Wednesday when it is expected that there will be opportunity to bring the question before the convention.

They plan to ask the convention to do an unprecedented thing and support the wishes of a minority. Recognizing the possibility of failure, they nevertheless have decided to go through with their plan to test the standing of the Progressives in Republican ranks.

A piece of conservative strategy, regarded as strengthening to their position, was a resolution introduced Tuesday in the state caucus pledging delegates to support the party nominees and barring from part in filling the two national committee posts those who refused.

As was expected, the Progressives in effect lost the resolution by a sustaining action on Senator John J. Blaine, chairman, in ruling the resolution out of order. Coupled with the whole history of Wisconsin insurrection is the basis of the conservative fight to block seating Ekern and Miss McCormick, and thereby retain two of their own number on the committee. They are George Vits, Manitowish, and Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Sheboygan.

Forty-eight hours is expected to disclose the attitude of the Republican party towards a question of much importance to its supporters in Wisconsin.

It was shown that on the first ballot Senator George Norris probably would receive 17 votes; Herbert Hoover 6, President Coolidge 1 and Frank O. Lowden 1.

From Progressives it was learned that they now plan to stick with the Nebraska to the finish.

SUMMER CLASSES AT CHURCH ARE STARTED WITH 30 ATTENDING

Youngsters Will Make Scrap Books for Children of Ellis Island

With an enrollment of thirty youngsters, the Congregational vacation Bible school classes got underway Monday morning. Several interesting projects are being carried out by the children under the direction of Miss Dorothy M. Leichter. Since the director said the work of the children is to be purposive, and that they are not to work merely for the sake of keeping occupied, some of the children will busy themselves with the making of scrapbooks of American customs for the children of Ellis Island. The scrapbooks will contain pictures of American children and will show what they eat, what they wear, how they play and study.

Others of the vacation students will make toys for the Congregational nursery where mothers leave their babies during services. Jig-saws and other amusements for the children are being made.

Junior students are working out a ritual service for the junior group and some of the children are working on dramatizations of well-known Bible stories. The story of Ruth will be worked out Wednesday.

Goodwill letters for Mexican children are being filled with pencils, crayons, cut-outs, dolls and anything else the children care to send. This project is similar to one carried out by children all over the country last year when they dressed dolls which they sent as good-will presents to the children of Romania.

Teachers of the Bible school are: Rosemary Walters, Beatrice Miller, Jeanette Hughes, Anna Bergecker, Dorothy Kubitz, Helen Jean Ingold and Miss Leichter, the general director.

TWO AUTO FIRES KEEP DEPARTMENT ON JUMP

Short circuited wires which set fire to an automobile driven by Jean Jackson called out the fire department Monday afternoon. The call was received from Onondaga and Harris streets and the flames extinguished with chemicals. No damage resulted.

The department was called out early Tuesday to put out a blaze which had started under the seat of a truck owned by Martin Boldt. Only rags are believed to have caused the fire.

ITALIA CREW FACES CRISIS ON ICE PACKS

Three Explorers Definitely Lost, Others Injured as Aviators Rush Help

Amsterdam, Holland.—(P)—Major Madelon, Italian air man, speeding to Spitzbergen to join in the rescue work of the Italia crew made a forced landing near Aalsmeer because of a short age of fuel Tuesday.

Gasoline was rushed from the Schiphol airdrome to enable him to reach the naval air station near Amsterdam. The major hopes to reach Stockholm Wednesday.

ITALIA CREW FACES CRISIS ON ICE PACKS

King's Bay, Spitzbergen.—(P)—At least some of the crew of the dirigible Italia stranded on the ice pack north of Spitzbergen faced a crisis Tuesday as Captain Riser-Larsen and Lieutenant Luetzow Holm, Norwegian aviators, rushed preparations to bring them aid.

With three of the crew definitely missing, and possibly lost, and the rest of the explorers divided into two parties drifting on an ice floe westward toward land, the utmost speed was used Tuesday to reach the stranded groups.

Two men arrived at Mossel bay early Tuesday morning with gasoline for Lieutenant Holm who was stranded at that place after a five-day reconnaissance during most of which he had been forced to wait idly because of fog and unfavorable ice conditions.

As soon as the Norwegian air man received the gasoline he flew to the south and landed on the ice. He conferred with Captain Riser-Larsen preparatory to making a new series of flights in an effort to find the missing men. He reported that he had sighted none of the Italia's crew during his search.

Two of the men in General Nobille's party had their legs broken when the gondola of the airship was torn loose on May 25. Carrying them toward safety has hampered the progress of the others.

The main group, which was carried 18 miles further to the east after the gondola was ripped away, was in need of medicine for those suffering from frost bites. Although their food supply was regarded as sufficient for a time, provisions were being rigorously rationed. They were believed to be nearing Foyn, island but were likely to find open water there.

Ice conditions were such that it was regarded as impossible to rescue them by airplane. A strong ice breaker was held to be the only practicable means of bringing the men to safety. It was hoped that the two ice breakers which the Russian government has sent northward would make good speed.

NEW LONDON MAN ARRESTED MONDAY AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Case Against Joseph Freund, Appleton, Dismissed for Lack of Evidence

Basel LeMarsh, New London, was arrested late Monday night by County Motorcycle Officer Steidl near New London and arraigned in court Tuesday morning on a charge of drunken driving. When he pleaded not guilty his case was continued to Tuesday afternoon. Jack Kearns, LeMarsh's companion, arrested for being drunk, was fined $10 Tuesday morning but was released for June 21. Arriving on a charge of drunken driving, when he pleaded not guilty his case was continued to Tuesday afternoon. Jack Kearns, LeMarsh's companion, arrested for being drunk, was fined $10 Tuesday morning but was released for June 21.

The case against Frank Vander Steen, Freedom, arrested for passing a worthless check was dropped Tuesday morning when he made good on the account. The vagrancy charge against Reinhard Ketelson, Seymour, also was dropped, when investigation showed there was little evidence on which to hold him. Embezzlement charges against Harry D. Jackson, Milwaukee, also may be dropped, the sheriff's office having received a check for the money. Jackson was supposed to have taken. He still must answer to charges of drunken driving, however.

Frank VanderHeiden, Buchanan, went to jail when he failed to furnish $1,000 bond after arraignment in court Monday afternoon on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The date of his hearing was set for June 21. Arriving on a charge of drunken driving, when he pleaded not guilty Monday afternoon and his charge was continued to June 22. Testimony at the hearing showed the charges to be the result of a family row.

Wilmer Meyer, Oshkosh, paid a fine of $1 and costs in municipal court Tuesday morning after being charged with jumping an arterial highway sign at N. Richmond-st. and W. Wisconsin-ave. The arrest was made by Officer Arndt.

The case against Joseph Freund, residing in Randall addition to the city of Appleton, was dismissed Tuesday for lack of evidence. Freund was charged with violation of the prohibition law when state officers raided his home and found alleged liquor in a garden near the property. Freund disclaimed any knowledge of the alleged liquor.

WEATHERMAN STICKS TO RAIN PREDICTION

The weather man is persistent in keeping rain on the weather menu for Appleton and vicinity, according to the predictions for the next 24 hours, which includes showers and thunderstorms.

Mostly fair weather with occasional showers has prevailed over the middle west within the past 24 hours, and fair weather is predicted in the upper and lower lake regions.

Temperatures for Tuesday were 60 degrees above zero in the morning and 71 degrees above at noon.

LETTER GOLF

THIS IS A "PLANE" ONE
Here's a new way to HOP OFF—without leaving the ground. Just follow the letter golf rules and you'll be able to do it in five strokes. That's par and one solution is on page 9.

H	O	P
O	F	F

THE RULES
1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEW, in three strokes. COW, HOW, HEW.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

BECHER MUST CALL COUNCIL MEETING ON FOURTH OF JULY

A new problem has come before Carl J. Becher, city clerk. Mr. Becher has, among his other duties, that of officially notifying Appleton's aldermen of council meetings, although it is common knowledge that the meetings are held the first and third Wednesdays in each month.

In looking over the calendar, he finds that the first Wednesday in July comes on July 4, a national holiday. Just the same, he says, the meeting will be called, even though no one answers the roll call.

APPLETON WILL NOT BE REPRESENTED AT MILWAUKEE SINGFEST

Members of Local Maennerchor Expect to Attend Program on Friday

Appleton is not to be represented at Milwaukee Singfest, when the 28th Singsfest of the Northwestern district opens for a three day session. It is expected, however, that some of the members of the local Maennerchor will attend the program on Friday.

Governors from seven states, including Governor Zimmerman of Wisconsin will attend on the second day as the official delegates of the states of the Northwest league.

The Singsbund of the Northwest originated in La Crosse in 1886 with seven member societies. Organized as an American institution by German-American citizens, its purpose was singing the songs of all the great poets and composers of the world, especially encouraging new and perpetuating the old German folk songs, as well as those of America.

On the opening day of the fest, a reception concert will be presented by a mixed chorus of 1,000 Milwaukee singers, under the direction of William Boppner. On Thursday afternoon, a program is to be presented by the Omaha Music Verein and the Verelinto Damenchoere from Chicago and Kansas City. The evening concert is to be sung by 2,000 male voices under the direction of Otto A. Singermer.

Three thousand children from the public and parochial schools, accompanied by a Milwaukee Junior orchestra under the direction of Rudolph Kop, will furnish the entertainment on the closing afternoon. The evening concert is to be rendered by the Bund. Mrs. Olsen, soprano, of the Wagner Opera company; Mme. Cyrena Van Gorp, mezzo soprano, of the Chicago Opera company; Albert Seibert, tenor, Stuttgart Operatic Ensemble, will be the soloists for the five concerts.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Frederick Stock, will appear at all concerts with the exception of the children's matinee.

HOOVER NOMINATION ASSURED AT SESSION

movement inside the party and it is a tribute to the effectiveness of the latter's organization that the biggest argument they had to offer those who had a lingering hope of naming Mr. Coolidge was that they had been practically a majority of the delegates in sight before the convention actually had its first roll call.

From now on it is merely a question of convention psychology even the anti-Hoover men know that without the Coolidge old guard they cannot hope to stop Hoover. The alternative for some of them is to join the procession and give to the Hoover nomination as much support as they can so that when his name does come before the convention it will be practically a nomination by acclamation. For this is no nomination obtained by a few men in smoke filled rooms at a early hour in the morning but a nomination won when the smart old guard type of leaders who control big delegations discovered in the self same smoke filled rooms during Monday night that the man born in Iowa and adopted by California was the only man who with a clean cut support of the administration policies could run on the record of the Coolidge administration other than the president and that it was too late for the latter to be drawn in onto a position of opposition to his own associate thus risking the transfer of the balance of power to a minority who had fought him on his major policies. For nearly all of the Coolidge men here are Hoover men and they will prefer Hoover to any anti-Coolidge candidates. The administration dominates this convention from beginning to end.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT PLAYGROUNDS ON 1ST DAY OF SEASON

Civic Council's Next Meeting to Be Devoted to Discussion of Cripples

An exceptionally large number of children attended the five playgrounds operated and maintained through the Civic council on Monday, the first day of this playground season, members of the council were told by A. C. Denny, director of playgrounds, at the monthly meeting of the organization in the Y. M. C. A. Monday night. Mr. Denny took the sub-directors of the playgrounds to the meeting to meet members of the council.

The first week in the playgrounds will be devoted largely to determining the kind of activities best suited to the children in the different localities, Mr. Denny said. He told the council there probably would not be much of a change from the program adopted last year. The playgrounds will be closed between 8 o'clock and 8:35 each evening and children should be home by 8:30 at least, it was explained.

SAFETY WARNING

Large banners bearing a warning to children that they must keep off the streets if they are to save their arms and legs are to be erected on the playgrounds as part of the City of Appleton-Appleton Post-Crescent Safe Driving Campaign and directors were instructed to call the attention of their charges to the dangers of going beyond the street curbs.

A report from the Third ward playground indicated an attendance of 88 children in spite of the fact that two schools in the ward still are in session.

Arrangements will be made at once for a joint meeting of Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, to which every person in the city will be invited, next Tuesday to hear Dr. Frederick J. Peterson, Milwaukee, discuss the care of crippled children. Reports at the meeting indicated that there are well over 100 children in the county handicapped by physical defects and the Civic council is considering remedial work for them.

REPORT ON PARK

The council also voted to devote its meeting on July 9 entirely to the matter of cripples and an invitation will be sent to Miss Margaret M. Lison of the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled to attend the session. Interested persons from all over the county will be asked to come.

Alderman Mike Steinhauer discussed the tourist camp at Alicia park for the council and urged the donation of articles of furniture to complete the equipment. He said the camp is considered by tourists to be among the finest in the country. It was suggested that arrangements be made to induce townspeople to keep out of that portion of the park given over to tourists but the alderman invited individuals and organizations to hold picnics in the park, saying there is plenty of room for that purpose without interfering with the campers.

ADMIT 60,000 ACRES OF LAND IN CROP LAW

Madison—(AP)—Approval for entrance of 60,000 acres of land under the forest crop law has been granted by the state conservation commission, according to Louis B. Nagler, director of conservation.

Additional entries which will be approved before Aug. 1, will probably bring the total acreage up to approximately 100,000 acres, Mr. Nagler said.

The 60,000 acres already approved are in eight tracts in Forest, Ashland, Sawyer, Price, Oneida, and Marinette counties. The largest single tract comprises 27,500 acres in Sawyer and Ashland counties.

Chrysler Bids For Place Among Automotive Leaders

New York—Henry Ford for many years has enjoyed an unquestioned claim to the honor of being the biggest single figure in the automobile world, but Walter P. Chrysler looms as a rival as a result of the announced $150,000,000 Dodge-Chrysler merger.

Chrysler's climb has been from a job wiping locomotives in the Union Pacific roundhouse at Ellis, Kansas—a job that netted him five cents an hour.

It was only four years ago that his name first appeared on an automobile radiator or hub cap.

Between those two epochs in his phenomenal career, he served as a railway motive power superintendent, foreman of the American Locomotive plant at Pittsburgh, and as a production executive for several big automobile manufacturers.

Chrysler developed a knack for pulling sick automobile concerns out of the doldrums. His last task along this line was with the Maxwell company, which he eventually took over and transformed into the Chrysler company.

It is said that when he began manufacturing his own car, it was in preference to accepting a salary offer of $1,000,000 a year.

"Lick your job" is Chrysler's slogan. And he has manifested all the "go-getting" qualities that the slogan implies.

STUDENT ATHLETES
ARE GIVEN MEDALS

Three, Ranking Highest in Four Years of High School Get Awards at Neenah

Neenah—Willis Haase, Elmer Radtke and George Pratt, have won highest ranking in athletics during their four years in high school, were presented with gold, silver and bronze medals respectively, Monday evening, by the American Legion. The presentation was made by Lawrence Lambert of the Legion, before an audience gathered for the first evening presentation of the pageant, "America" by the senior class at Kimberly high school auditorium.

The presentation followed the introductory speech by William Haase, the class president and the presentation of the key by Douglas Barnett, senior, to Karl Gaertner, Junior. Both young men gave a short talk in behalf of their classes.

Music was given by the high school orchestra under direction of Melvin Schneider, Appleton. The pageant will be given Tuesday evening for parents, older students and town people. The annual graduating exercises will take place at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Neenah theatre.

NEENAH SOCIETY

The Philomathean literary society of Kimberly high school left Tuesday afternoon for the Boy Brigade cabin, west of the city limits, where the annual picnic will be conducted. A picnic supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

The Aerial orchestra will go to Winneconne Wednesday evening to play for the first of the series of Wednesday evening pavement dances.

The Cub staff of high school held its annual breakfast Tuesday morning at park point. The staff members left at 5:30 for the picnic grounds where breakfast was served and the morning spent in games.

We ate card club was entertained Monday evening by Mrs. Otto Spude at her home on Lincoln. The evening was spent in playing bridge. Prizes were won by Miss Hilda Hawkins and Mrs. Robert Ebert.

The wedding of Miss Martha Rusch and Walter Kuehn took place Tuesday evening at St. John Lutheran church at Caldonia. A large group of relatives will attend the ceremony and the reception which will follow at Kundering hall, Reedfield.

6 OF 7 AUTO ACCIDENT
VICTIMS ARE IMPROVING

Neenah—The condition of the seven people who figured in an auto accident Saturday evening on Highway 41, was reported good Tuesday, with exception of Herman Bahr, whose condition is reported as fair. Mr. Bahr, on account of his advanced age and having his chest crushed in, is now subjected to pneumonia or other complications. They are in Theda Clark hospital.

COLUMBIA PARK TENNIS COURTS NEARLY FINISHED

Neenah—The two new cement tennis courts at Columbia park have been laid and the grounds around them have been put in shape so that playing can be started within the next few weeks. Back stops are to be erected and there will be a screen to separate the courts from the baseball diamond which will be constructed just east of them. The old tennis courts at the southeast end of the park are to be taken up, and the backstops removed and another baseball diamond is to be constructed.

STUDENT SOFTBALL

Noted Physician Blames Too Few
Clothes For Illness Among Girls

Chicago—What are the average young men and young women like in this day of Flaming Youth, anyway? Dr. Reginald Fitz, associate professor of medicine at the Harvard University Medical School, can answer that question about as well as anyone, at least as far as physical characteristics go. Not long ago he made a series of examinations of a large number of college boys and girls, ranging in age from 19 to 25, and in the current issue of Hygeia, the magazine of the American Medical Association, he summarizes his findings.

The average girl, he finds, is first of all, a bit underweight.

"She tends deliberately to under-nourish herself in order to keep thin," he explains. "One gets the impression that a girl's present aim is to keep thin at all costs; failing to attain this end she may become discouraged and conclude that the effort is more bother than it is worth, in which case she may go to the other extreme and placidly eat herself into a condition of abnormal obesity."

In the second place, she doesn't wear quite enough clothing.

Dr. Fitz found that two pounds of clothing, including shoes, is considered excessive by the average girl, 12 ounces seems just about right to a great many.

These two traits have effects which a doctor can readily spot.

Too light clothing makes the average girl constantly cold—in the winter time, at any rate. Body temperatures fully two degrees below normal are often encountered; blood pressure also tends to be subnormal. The result is not good for the health.

"She"—the average girl—"is constantly below par and thus liable to minor infections in the way of colds or sore throats and may readily incur more serious troubles," writes Dr. Fitz.

"Thus in my group it was found that 36 per cent of the women had lost two or more weeks' time from minor illnesses during the preceding two years, while only 16 per cent of the men had been bothered by a similar loss of time as a result of illness."

"One more striking was the number of girls who complained of getting easily tired, a complaint almost unheard of among the men. This, perhaps, is a more serious matter. The modern girl requires pep at all costs. Her popularity and dash depend entirely on this altogether indescribable characteristic. It is not easy to be wondered at, therefore, that the modern, undernourished girl who continually feels cold, who is liable to minor infections and gets easily tired on very moderate efforts, acquires the habit of obtaining pep by artificial means."

On the whole, however, Dr. Fitz gives the average girl a good bill of health.

"She was active and graceful in the handling of her body, had good posture, was fairly tall, had well formed shoulders and a small waist, was perhaps a little thin, but well muscled and sturdy," he writes.

"On the whole, she appeared to be perfectly healthy, both mentally and body, and was much more of the athletic than the flapper type."

He lists a few physical characteristics of the average girl thus:

Age, 22 years. Height, 5 feet 4 inches. Weight, 126 pounds. Temperature, 98.6 degrees. Pulse rate, 88. Blood pressure, 122.

So much for the average girl. And the average boy?

The boy tends to keep his weight up to par better than the girl. In dealing with the weight, he is slightly overweight rather than underweight. He enjoys good health and is decidedly of the athletic type—sometimes to a greater extent than is good for him.

"They tend, perhaps, to lead too strenuous an existence," he writes. "It is a question whether so much violent and gamelike conduct as many are taking for recreation may not prove to have a detrimental influence on the heart and blood vessels by throwing on them an unnecessary load which will be harmful in the long run."

Here are his figures on the average boy:

Age, 22 years. Height, 5 feet 10 inches. Weight, 159 pounds. Temperature, 98.7 degrees. Pulse rate, 82. Blood pressure, 129.

All in all, Dr. Fitz is highly encouraging about modern youth.

"The whole youth of today are a fine crowd of young men and women," he writes. "As they have their innings, they will carry on the work of the country in the best possible way. No doubt they will, in time, greatly come to be more or less builders, the conduct of some of their own young people."

CAR SPINS AROUND TWICE
BUT NO ONE IS INJURED

Menasha—As Mrs. Charles Witz and child drove onto highway 114 at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning from a side street they got in the path of a heavy sedan going east which whirled their car around twice and damaged their running board and fender. It remained right side up, however, and no one was injured. The sedan was quite badly damaged.

Man Without Badge Halt
Undressed At Convention

Kansas City—(AP)—A man in Kansas City Tuesday without a badge is half undressed. He might as well have his coat off as to have it undecorated with a badge. The Republican convention broke out in a rash of badges Monday night and by Tuesday it was an epidemic.

The badges have it. Big badges and little ones, modest ones with small pictures of favorite candidates, and some as big as platters, shouting an allegiance so pointedly that he who runs may read.

Hotel lobbies have every appearance of the after luncheon hour. Just at adjournment of a joint meeting of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs. Apparently there is no limit on the number of badges per capita. Some of the visitors have assembled a collection of half a dozen. One man from Indiana, wore so many that a small envious boy asked his mother, "does the one with the most win?"

"A lack of coordination between badge and voiced sentiment appeared here and there. Men displaying pictures of a candidate on their coats talked of what they might do when and if their candidates should be left in the picture only on the badges.

The Hoover badges seemed to offer the most variety in a catch-as-catch-can survey. At least three different types of Hoover lapel decorations were in evidence. The Curtis buttons were the midge of the class and the Watson badges were the giants. No difficulty would be found in serving an old fashioned piece of pie on one of the Watson emblems.

The Curtis supporters introduced a gay sunflower-decorated headress extolling the virtues of the Kansas. The Loyden camp met this challenge with a flowing streamer and Hoover's partisans countered with brilliant arm bands. Two young women did not wear their Hoover arm bands on their arms. They displayed them below their skirts.

The badges lend wisdom to their wearers. An unbanded man who failed utterly to gain a hearing was listened to with respect as he spoke authoritatively after pinning a badge.

The badges taught some Kansans to sing. Wearing sunflowers to reinforce the badges, a group sang of the joy of attending a Republican convention unaccompanied by their wives, declaring in the chorus that they were strong for Curtis.

Not all the badges are worn by Republicans. Hundreds of Democrats mingled in the crowds on even terms with the banded and streamer visitors. They are Kansas Cityites. Their badges invite questions with, "ask me I live here." Some of these badges were veterans, entitled to a service ribbon from the American Legion convention of 1921.

NEENAH KIWANIANS
MEET WITH MENASHA

Menasha—Neenah Kiwanis club will be guests of Menasha Kiwanis club at its luncheon Tuesday noon. The program will be conducted by Gilbert Hill, who has engaged an orchestra of town speaker. A stunt which is being kept a secret also has been planned.

Menasha club will celebrate "All Kiwanis Night," Monday June 18, as guests of Neenah Kiwanis club at 6:30 at Valley Inn. Semour club will be guests. Col. F. J. Schieller, state commander of the American legion, will be the speaker at a luncheon to be given Tuesday, June 26.

BUY TWO BUILDINGS ON NEW BRIDGE SITE

Menasha—The frame buildings on the bank of the government canal on Tayco-st. which have to be removed to make room for the new Tayco-st. bridge, were purchased Saturday by R. L. Pankratz, who required to remove them within a month. The buildings were offered for sale by the Wisconsin highway commission at its Green Bay office.

JOHN BEST IS

SAFETY IS FEATURE OF VACATION CAMP ON ONAWAY ISLAND

Instructor Says Swimming Is Healthful as Well as a Camp Necessity

Every boy attending the Y. M. C. A. camp at Onaway Island this summer will not only be taught to swim but will be taught the value as a health producer, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director.

Swimming is the best of all gymnastics for the involuntary muscles and for the heart and blood vessels, Mr. Jensen says. Swimming strengthens the lungs by causing deep breathing; it strengthens the nervous system because it induces natural sleep; it strengthens the spine and enlarges the chest, because it causes the head to be thrown back and the chest out; it strengthens and sets right the pelvic organs because the body is in motion on the horizontal plane. By the wormlike motion of the trunk, characteristic in swimming, all internal parts are assisted in their normal functions, liver and kidney trouble disappear, and the danger from appendicitis is greatly lessened.

"Every swimmer is a swimmer and every swimmer a life saver" is the slogan of the Y. M. C. A. Swimming must be made contagious, safeguarded by proper instruction, and permitted only at stated periods and places. It is one phase of camp life that cannot be considered light and carelessly in a careless manner. Water is a good friend to those who understand how to master it, but it is a deadly enemy to those who do not.

Camp Onaway is so situated that the non-swimmer can be given the privilege of segregation as well as the swimmer. On one side of the island the water is shallow and in no place is more than waist deep. This gives the non-swimmer a place to receive instruction away from the swimmers and gives the beginner a better opportunity to gain confidence in the water. This is one of the most important phases in learning to swim.

The swimmer has what can be called "the swimmers' paradise," with deep water and equipment such as diving tower, spring board and chutes that always add to the joy of knowing how to swim. A corps of well trained life guards who have passed their Red Cross life saving tests, will be in attendance at all swimming periods. These guards will be stationed in boats and on the dock ready to protect and guard the safety of the swimmer.

In addition to this the swimming director, Mr. Jensen, will have full charge of swimming periods from a lookout tower that gives a full view of all the boys in swimming. An additional precaution for all boys in camp will be the "Buddy System." Two boys are paired together before each swim, and each will act as life saver to the other. Checks will be made on the buddies several times during each period. Rules on swimming and boating must be strictly adhered to, to insure the safety of the camp.

16 ENROLLMENTS FOR 1928 C. M. T. C. CAMP

Committee Expects Minimum Quota of 28 Will Be Filled by Next Week

Sixteen enrollments from Appleton, Little Chute and Kaukauna have been accepted by the committee in charge of Outagamie County Citizens' Military Training camp enrollments, according to Raymond P. Dohr, chairman. Eight applications are pending physical examinations and Mr. Dohr expects that the minimum quota of 28 will be filled by next week.

The following have enrolled: Kenneth Downer, Marvin Miller, Jack Conlon, Robert Main, John Mau, Sylvester Lehrer, Gilbert S. Mitchell, Francis Grogan and Richard Otte. Kaukauna: Robert Kunitz, Eugene Liece, Joseph Grassberger, Jr., Carleton F. T. Marvin Schol, and Raymond Gloudehans, Appleton; and Sylvester Jansen, Little Chute.

NEW FLAG TO WAVE OVER BUILDING OF CITY WEIGHMASTER

West End merchants don't like the looks of the flag waving over the city weighmaster's office. It doesn't make much difference now, though, because a new one will hereafter grace the structure through the liberality of two business houses.

The Schaefer Grocery company and the Appleton Engine combined to make the purchase and the presentation was made to Mayor A. C. Rule Friday.

PLUMBING ACTIVITIES INCREASE DURING MAY

The May report of George Gauslin, city plumbing inspector, reveals increased activity in plumbing work being done in the city. The inspector reports 206 fixtures were connected to the present city water and sewer system as follows: Water closets 45, floor drains 55, wash basins 35, sinks 33, bath tubs 22, soda fountains 1, shower baths 1, and conductors 3. The amount accruing to the city treasury from these connections was $104.

Sixty-two permits were issued for opening trenches in the city. Thirty-one permits were for sewer trenches, 2 for sewer repairs, 29 for water connections and one for a water service extension. The sewer permits brought $62, to the city treasury, the sewer repairs permit $2 and the water connections, $29. The total accruing in the treasury from sewer and plumbing permits was $197.

Cold Weather Holds Up North Country Fishing

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

The season for north country fishing is open but, owing to the cold weather prevalent this spring, it has not as yet been very good. However, from now on, conditions will be steadily improving and one may now arrange for a trip with assurance that results will be satisfactory.

In our wanderings last season we discovered a place that I believe will be well worth telling you about. Up in Washburn county is a little backwoods village known as Minong. It is in a district of the most "newly discovered" lakes of Wisconsin, and that means that the fish are plentiful. From that point six lakes lie just a few miles distant. Gilmore, Pokokama, Horseshoe, Kimball, Nancy Whitefish, are all good waters from which you can take Walleyes, Northern pike and bass. From the Togaite river you can take trout, and in the St. Croix river, which is only fifteen miles from Minong, you will find some of the very best Small Mouth bass fishing that is to be had anywhere in the state.

The lakes are big, some of them being miles in extent, and they are situated in wild forest country of beautiful scenery. Along the shores of Pokokama there are miles of old snags, sunken trees and rocks among which the bass are very plentiful. We took our limit in a short time while there last season. Some we caught on "plugs" and others on surface flies, using the fly rod. That, to my thinking, is about the finest form of angling to be had. It requires skill if you hook a big one. If you do not get him out into deep water almost immediately after he hits the lure, you will generally lose him. He will dive down among the snags and entangle your leader, and that means disaster as every fisherman knows.

In angling for the big Walleyes we used shiner minnows until we decided to try artificial lures. We visited the St. Croix river for some of the Small Mouth bass fishing that we had often heard about, and we were not disappointed. We waded the stream as we would a trout water and used our fly rods with various kinds of lures. During the day we landed many on different kinds of so-called "bug" lures. Then, as evening approached, we used surface flies. It mattered not what kind so far as pattern and color was concerned. We took some very nice specimens on a Yellow Sally, some on a Royal Coachman, and also others of equal size on a black fly.

Taking everything into consideration, this is a country we can recommend heartily to those of you fishermen who are not afraid of work. The fish are there for you if you want them and will work for them.

GROCERS TO GIVE ROAD INFORMATION

Wisconsin Retailers Association Adopts Plan to Help Tourists

Milwaukee—(AP)—The tourist in Wisconsin can soon step into the nearest grocery and obtain free road information.

E. W. Cornelius, executive secretary, Tuesday announced that stores of members of the Wisconsin Retailers Association through out the state will soon delegate one person in each store to be kept posted on general road conditions throughout the state. That individual will make daily reports to the headquarters of the association at Milwaukee concerning road conditions in his territory. "We feel," said Mr. Cornelius, "that each store having a number of employees living in different sections of each city and district can keep the tourist well posted on local district road conditions. Local people know short cuts and points where repairs and improvements are progress far better than any authorized road agent."

Each merchant member of the association who becomes a part of the touring bureau through his pledge to keep accurate and correct touring information and send in the daily post card reports, will be provided with a colored window sign identifying that he is a member of the Wisconsin Retailers association road information group.

A booklet will be issued entitled "Where to shop when Touring Wisconsin," and to contain general information, a map and a list of the members of the Retailers association, classified according to their city. Tourists will thus have the correct address and location of stores selling merchandise they might require and at the same time be informed on places where first hand tourist information may be had.

The booklets are to be distributed to service stations, oil stations, hotels and all sources of tourist information. The window signs will be distributed during the month of August and a demonstration of their correct application will be made at the Retailers' Convention on August 13, 14 and 15, at Sheboygan. More than 1,000 retail merchants with their families and guests are expected to attend. Most of the retailers will travel as units of the statewide motor caravans which will make up a gala parade and carnival on the evening of August 13.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT 16 TIMES LAST MONTH

Sixteen calls were received by the fire department in May, according to the monthly report of Louis McGillan, secretary to the fire chief, but only one call was to a serious fire. The loss at this fire was $1,500. The cause of the fire is unknown. In May, 1927, the department received ten calls and the loss for the month was $350. Other calls during last month were as follows: Grass fires, 2; chimney fire, 2; short circuits in autos, 2; false alarms, 2; sparks from garbage burner; overheated gas range; cigarette; static sparks and escaping smoke, one each.

The Greater Wear and Service in

Miller Tires

GEARED-TO-THE-ROAD

THAT'S what users say—that's what you'll say when you know this truth from experience.

Greater wear comes from the finer rubber and cotton Miller uses. Greater mileage results from the famous One-Piece Tread and Sidewalls—the broad, Road-Shaped, Geared-to-the-Road Tread—and "Uni-flex" Cord Construction.

And because of these advantages—you get greater satisfaction when you buy Millers. There are no finer tires built—none of comparable quality that are easier to buy. Ask us for prices.

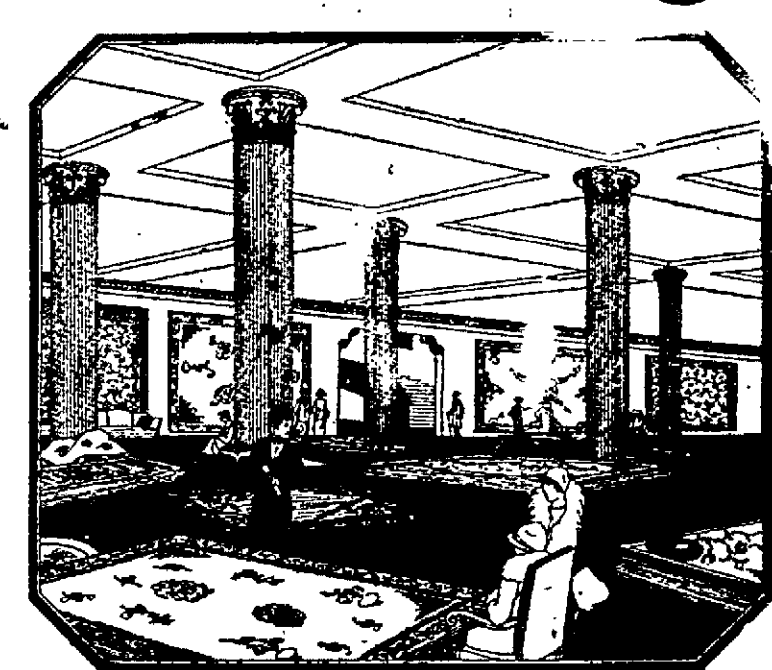

Day after day more people in Appleton Ride on Miller Tires. Not only the mileage delivered by the tires but "Scheurle Service" brings them back. The only dependable tire service for 20 years. Tires since 1908 and Miller exclusive for the last nine years. No other dealer has sold the same brand for the same length of time. Don't buy this year this tire, next year another. Insist on the same year after year. If your dealer is a reputable dealer he will have the same product year after year. He cannot afford to keep changing as the overhead increases.

PROPAGANDA IN SCHOOLS

"The ladies of a temperance society, taking their stand not wisely but too well, declared that they would flood the public schools of a large city with propaganda for prohibition. The superintendent stated that he would bar all such matter from the schools."

"I can't conceive of a man in that position taking that stand," said a leader of the society. "He appears to be throwing his influence with the wets."

"I will not engage in any controversy," said the school head. "I am dry, but that's got nothing to do with it. If the ladies come in to discuss the teaching of temperance, I'll be glad to talk with them. But I will not permit the introduction of propaganda of any kind into the school system."

It must be admitted that the head was right. The teaching of temperance in general is a vital part of education, because only through self-control can a child learn to become master of himself and of circumstances. But prohibition is a political issue, a matter on which people of sincere and moral purpose honestly differ. If prohibition propaganda is permitted, then there can be no reason to forbid wet propaganda. Or any other propaganda.

The underlying principle of keeping the schools free is deeper than any single issue. The time and energy of children and teachers, the money of the taxpayers, are set apart for the purpose of education. Education is a matter of learning principles—whether of mathematics or grammar or air currents or the past conduct of men. Competition, argument, application of principles to life must come after the principles themselves are learned. Anything, no matter how apparently harmless or even beneficial, which hampers children in learning general principles is bad. It confuses their minds at the time when they most need to be clear. It takes time and energy away from the things they are in school to learn.

POINCARÉ'S ADVICE ON THRIFT

Premier Poincaré delivered a lecture to the chamber of deputies. It was a heart-to-heart talk on thrift, although it did hint in places that stabilization of the franc might come soon. France, the premier urged, must spend less than she receives, produce more than she consumes, export more than she imports; if she is to thrive and to achieve financial reconstruction. The address contained the warning that "one more imprudence or one false step would be sufficient to plunge the country again over a precipice from which no one could rescue it."

This all refers to France, of course, but an individual struggling with personal or family finances may very well tune in on it. Saving without spending is miserliness and does no one any good. But spending a little less than one's income, avoiding the impudent and false step—which may be investing foolishly or buying articles of poor quality, not adapted to their purpose—are as important to the individual who would be solvent and happy as to the nation that would have its monetary unit stabilized.

WHY LAUGH AT CHINESE?

It is customary to laugh at the Chinese because their armies seem to stop fighting on the slightest provocation. If it rains, Occidentals believe, the most important battle will be postponed until more clement weather. As soon as Chang Tso-Lin realized that the Nationalists were sure of taking Peking, he and his followers abandoned it without battle. The conquerors approached the city quietly, the city awaited them quietly. Perhaps it is a queer way to carry on a revolution; perhaps it is an eminently sensible way. At any rate, it is a distinctly Chinese way.

There may be more fighting. No one knows yet whether the Nationalist leaders who work together so well when they are interfered with by Reds or Japanese or Northern armies will continue to work together well when they are victors. Factions have sprung up in the past and may do so again. Yet it seems certain that the Chinese revolution will continue to be different from the great national revolutions that have preceded it in history simply because the Chinese people are different. They adapt themselves to circumstances with marvelous facility. They seem to see their goal more clearly and to be able to eliminate non-essentials more readily than their western friends.

EDUCATING THE PUBLIC

The American Wholesale Coal association is planning to spend $250,000 a year to educate the public "in behalf of all industries connected with the production and distribution of coal." The greater part of the fund, it is explained, is to be spent in newspaper advertising, and most of it will deal with the uses and practicability of coal as a fuel.

The public doubtless can stand a good deal of education in the matter of using coal and getting its money's worth by knowing how to use the different varieties. There are coke, and cannel coal, there are many varieties of soft coal, as well as lignite, with anthracite standing in a sort of lordly aristocracy at the top of the list.

Besides knowing when to use which kind, and how, the public would like a little education as to how the coal business is conducted. With most other businesses making increasingly good livings for their workers, the coal mining industry remains one of the mysteries of modern economics, and a dark mystery in more senses than one.

VOLIVA WON'T CHANGE MIND

Some people thought maybe Wilbur Glenn Voliva would return from Europe with his belief in the flatness of the earth a little shaken. No so. Flat it is, he says, and round, like a plate, with the north pole in the center of the plate.

"You'll notice that the sun never goes any farther north than the Tropic of Cancer, and never any farther south than the Tropic of Capricorn. This business of the sun setting and the sun rising is only an optical illusion. It does not prove that the earth is round. The sun goes round it like an orange."

What the tropics and equator mean to a flat earth is a little hard to grasp, though Wilbur seems to do it calmly enough. What worries him is Byrd's next expedition to the Antarctic. He is afraid if Byrd goes too far over the Antarctic plateau, he will fall off the edge.

One thing is certain—if Byrd does succeed in flying over the edge, he will have some interesting things to tell when he flies back again.

FLIGHT STILL A VICTORY

The news that the Italia's crew has been definitely located comes along with that of the splendid success achieved by the Southern Cross. If the crew of the Italia is rescued, though the dirigible be wrecked, this flight must still be called a victory, though not unqualified. Much knowledge will have been gained, safe landing made under difficulties, and the relief parties advised by radio of position. A little has been learned about long distance flying, but considering what the world expects to do in the air during the next few years, most of it has yet to be ascertained. The technique of making the best of a bad business is an important branch of this knowledge.

AN OUTLINE FROM HYGIENE

No. 37.—What Hardens the Arteries

Having described in a previous chapter the picture the physician has in mind when he uses or hears such terms as chronic myocarditis, arteriosclerosis, hypertension, high blood pressure, chronic nephritis (Bright's disease), and apoplexy, we may now attempt to tell what hardens the arteries, weakens the heart, raises blood pressure, damages the kidneys and renders fragile the terminal arteries in the brain. So far as our present knowledge goes, these conditions are all part of a general disease, cardio-vascular disease, and they are all due to the same causes. But first, let us briefly mention some things which commonly send the blood pressure of a healthy person up above the normal, test the renal periphery has been told he has "high blood pressure." These things are emotion, cold, cold bath, a big meal of any kind of food, violent exertion, a smoke, and especially any of these if you take it "flying down," more physical inactivity or laziness cannot be included in the list, though it certainly predisposes.

We admitted the other day that we do not know enough about cardiovascular disease to lay down definite rules for those who would avoid it, but I shall endeavor to give the consensus of medical opinion as to the causes. Obviously these causes are named in the order of their importance or frequency.

Alcoholism, tobaccoism, chronic lead poisoning, syphilis, the toxemia of acute infections, especially diphtheria, typhoid and acute infectious arthritis, habitual overexertion as in feats of strength and endurance, habitual overeating. The last mentioned, refers to no particular kind of food. Most overeating is in the carbohydrate and starches and sugars. There is no reason at all to imagine that overeating is more harmful than too much bread or too much meat or too much candy. The old time doctors included "gout" in the list of causes of heart artery disease. Today gout just doesn't happen. With the passing of "gout" the prejudice against "red meat or dark meat, or against all meat, naturally retired out. The not very well explored Steadman, has lately lived for many months on an exclusive meat diet, proving that our ancient prejudices against this food was unfounded. Of course the question of overeating relates to the individual's age, physical activity and stature.

I fear that in explaining what overeating means I have been too technical and too prominent, and heaven knows our proper vitals are almost enough nowadays by the 57 varieties of dietetic "experts."

One word in the list of causes of cardio-vascular disease requires definition. "The toxemia of acute infections means the poison produced by the germ of the disease, in the blood. This has no connection with the bacteria. The not very well explored Steadman, has lately lived for many months on an exclusive meat diet, proving that our ancient prejudices against this food was unfounded. Of course the question of overeating relates to the individual's age, physical activity and stature.

Most of us are destined to succumb eventually to some form of cardio-vascular disease. The average duration of the disease is 15 to 18 years, so that one has plenty of time for confirming the diagnosis or investigating various kinds of treatment. Naturally enough, few persons who haven't developed the disease are interested in the cause or prevention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Foolish Maidens

Several times you have implied that a young woman is foolish to give three years of her time to the study of nursing when a two year course makes perfectly competent nurses. What is gained by talking about two year courses when only two states recognize training schools that graduate nurses in two years? A two year course could only make practical nurses' wages. (J. A.)

Answer—"The recognition" trick is just a scheme whereby a little clique seeks to control all education, and with a fine little scheme for swelling the profits of education. I care not a tiny bit about that. I know that two year courses turn out the best nurses in the country. The pupil who serves the hospital an additional year simply gives the skilled service of a trained nurse to the institution for a year at something less than a chamber maid's salary. That's the secret of the three year course of training for nurses. Three highbrow hospitals know this. Graduates of two year courses receive three times as much as graduates of one year courses. Even if only two states "recognize" training schools that do not rob the nurse of a year of her productive time, I should advise the young woman contemplating the study of nursing to comb those two states carefully for a school before she offers herself to any grasping three year institution at her own expense.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, June 16, 1918

Ten thousand persons were in attendance at the annual convention of the Northwestern Band association at Fond du Lac. Ten bands participated.

The annual school board meeting was to be held July 6. New directors were to be elected. The directors were W. S. Taylor, Joseph Koffend, John Geisler and Herman Gotschew.

Miss Flora Wickert and Dr. R. M. Hettinger were married the previous day. They were to make their home in this city.

Miss May Webster had been engaged as teacher in the First ward.

Forest fires were raging near Marquette. Miss Louise Weiler and John Tempas were married the previous evening. They were to live on Sixth-st.

A party of young ladies, composed of the Misses Bessie and Lillian Rogers, Leah Thoms, Lela and Eleanor Erb and Elsie and Lita Koffend were to occupy the H. H. Rogers cottage for a few days.

There were 51,528 divorced persons in the United States at that time, two thirds of whom were women.

TEN YEARS AGO

Tuesday, June 11, 1918

Hawaii and Porto Rico were asked to send soldiers to the war that day. It was the first real taste of the war. Porto Rico was asked for 12,485 men and Hawaii for 1,226 men.

A. C. Rule, assessor of incomes, was spending a week in Watoua-co.

James Monahan, George Teerenboom and Dr. George Teerenboom were the winners at skat at the weekly tournament at the 33c-club the previous evening.

Lieutenant Stephen Peabody, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Peabody, was spending a leave of absence with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanagan left that day for Madison where they were to attend the convention of the American Medical Association.

Miss Alma Krause and Walter Wildland, both of New London, were to be married soon. Miss Krause had been employed at stenographer for Rooney and Grokan.

Those who were to take part in the program given by the Sisters the following evening were Dorothy Murphy, Kenneth Breitrick, Burton Mann, Dorothy Belline, Katherine Pratt, LaVahn Maesch and Joseph Wimmer, Jr.

The annual school meeting was to be held July 1. Directors were Paul V. Cary, Dr. George Johnston, A. G. Koch and Robert Hackworth.

A HOT TIME IN K. C.

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

LARGEST PRINTING PLANT IN THE WORLD

Washington, D. C. — Members of Congress learned to their surprise on a recent tour of the Government Printing Office that commands of Gen. Pershing to his army were printed and issued daily by a mobile printing plant.

Ever one knows about the man who carried the message to Garcia through no matter what peril and of the courier who after delivering a message to Napoleon answered the query "Are you hurt?" by crying as he collapsed, "I am killed, sire."

Scenes like these have become the popular idea of how information is carried in times of stress; whereas, the maintaining in war times of a peace time routine is practically unknown.

Not merely casual bulletins, but communications of the General Staff of the most confidential nature are printed in a fully equipped printing office mounted on trucks which followed "Black Jack" Pershing as long as the war lasted.

A linotype machine of American manufacture, but French by letter, is like setting up the government's recorder of war secrets of vital importance. Ten years after the war it is not a disabled veteran, but after hospitalization, it is one of about one hundred and fifty linotypes which keep up a record-making race with the government's printing publications. Over it hangs a bronze tablet given by the International Association of Printing House Craftsmen which reads, "In honor of a linotype that served its country on the battle fields in France — there upon its keyboard it printed the first shot and shell, this machine typed General Pershing's commands to America's victorious army."

Corp. James M. Kreiter, one of the printers who operated the Pershing machine in France is its present custodian.

Members of Congress may well have received another surprise in observing that the Government Printing Office is not a supplanting force for more funds and discontent with past favors. With its increasing orders it hopes to be permitted to increase the number of employees so that its high standard of service may not be lowered. On the other hand, the attitude of this office of the Government is made apparent by the Public Printer, George H. Carter, when he expresses appreciation for the interest and cooperation of Members of Congress.

The Printing is an independent establishment with a working capital of $2,500,000 neither under the control of Congress, nor of an executive department, and for the management of which the Public Printer is entirely responsible. He is appointed by the President and confirmed by Congress, and looks to a Joint Committee of Congress for counsel and for approval in the purchase of paper and machinery.

ENORMOUS BUSINESS HANDLED Under this system an office has developed which is able to handle an enormous volume of business and turn back an unexpended balance into the Treasury. During 1927, with receipts of more than thirteen and one-half million dollars, more than twelve and one-half millions were spent, and more than a million dollars was returned to the Treasury. The Veterans Bureau is the only one of twenty-two independent establishments which has more employees than the Government Printing Office with its 4086. It ranks fifth in number of employees among the ten executive departments and the Treasury, Navy, Agriculture and Commerce Departments leading.

After an allotment of a million and a quarter dollars from the Public Buildings Commission is spent on a new addition, the Government Printing Office will be the best housed as well as the largest printing plant in the world. Its floor space will amount to "some nine hundred thousand square feet."

All the phases of the printing and binding arts, except lithography, are found in this establishment. To carry on the work of publishing more than forty daily, weekly, and monthly periodicals and large special jobs, 1235 machines are used. Machinery that is the latest and fastest has replaced most of the old equipment during the past five years, because printing equipment becomes obsolete after twenty-five forty years of usage.

More than 381 machines belong to the printing division which has 143 linotypes, one intertype, two Ludlow machines, 100 monotype key-boards, and 129 monotype casting machines. There are 136 presses for presswork, two of the best being the last word in magazine presses, and used for speedy production of the Congressional Record. The bindery and plate-making divisions also have the most up-to-date machines. In the former, 310 are used for folding and binding, and in the latter more than 100 make possible an output of about twelve million square inches of different kinds of printing plates. During recent years a photo-engraving plant having four cameras has been established.

MAKES SOME OF ITS OWN SUPPLIES. A laboratory is equipped for the testing of materials and supplies, and much equipment — rollers, ink, type metals, glue, etc. — is made in the Government Printing Office. In addition other departments of the Government are furnished with such supplies as glue and ink at a saving of them of $20,000 annually. It is estimated that this amount will increase to $35,000 or $40,000.

The largest customer of this concern is the Post Office Department, which buys to it annually about two million and a half dollars. Congress spends for its various publications including the Congressional Record, approximately two and a quarter millions.

The Patent Office spends more than a million for the printing of patent specifications and the Patent Office Gazette. And item alone cost the Department of Agriculture nearly four hundred thousand dollars. This was the publication of the Agricultural Yearbook. More than sixteen million farmers' bulletins are published annually, and one hundred million income tax blanks are printed for the Treasury Department in about thirty days.

The department which is asking for an increase in personnel is the Office of the Superintendent of Documents. Here, all the free bulletins as well as the publications that are sold, are prepared for distribution. The orders alone have increased 31 1/2 percent in two years and account for the handling of 10,000,000 copies of publications. This added to the forty-five or fifty million copies ordered through the government departments causes a delay that is irritating not only to customers, but to the Government Printing Office as well.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Whenever and wherever Broadway characters are charted, the name of Kate Reddy must occupy a place close to the top of the list.

Of course you've never heard of Kate. She is no impresario of the "gay white way," such as George White or Earl Carroll or Flo Ziegfeld or Gene Buck. Kate is a wardrobe mistress. And for 18 years she watched the chorine come and go; she has put away their hastily discarded spangled gowns and watched them don their dollar-down street clothes; she has seen them marry millionaires and behold their start toward the gutter; they have wept on her shoulder and snuggled their fingers triumphantly under her nose.

And Kate has gone on, sitting on the sidelines mending the endless assortments of rips and tears in the costumes.

If you were to ask Kate what constitutes the greatest tragedy in the life of any chorine she would not, in all likelihood, mention drink or parties or wild living—but the passing of youth. Only the woman who sits on the sidelines knows how anxiously a lady of the ensemble watches her mirror, as the years slip by. To be sure, high living and all that contribute to the wrinkles and the lines and the circles under the eyes. But Time is slowly cruel.

Kate has mothered more than one youngster who came out of the small towns to the big city without the slightest idea of what Broadway was all about. But like all such personalities, she reserves her philosophy and advice for those who want it bad enough to seek it. She isn't likely to be intrusive. The show business is the show business—just as any business might be after 18 years; an endless round of costumes to be attended to and mended.

Manhattan snapshots: Mrs. Leslie Carter hurrying to a matinee performance. "Remem'r" when "Zaza" was the last word in naughtiness. "Zaza" and "Sapho" was wicked beyond imagination. Kate Reddy today would probably get a big laugh from Ina Claire, one of Broadway's favorites. "She's another who came out of the ranks of chorines." Let's see. So did Dolores Costello, Louise Brooks, Mae Murray, Marietta Serrano, Greta Nissen, David Warfield, Edith Head, and a whole lot of others. And Kate Reddy, starting for Europe. And quite annoyed because a newspaper confused him with a ticket scalper of the same name.

Taxicab drivers who regulate their own tips and then ask you, "Is that all right?" Of course you can start a fight. The increasing number of taxicab drivers who open your cab for you on Broadway, and expect at least a nickel. Jean Herscholt, the film character man, who I have always thought to be quite as good as Jannings if they gave him the right pictures. Do you remember when the "Jewish" Or more, remember the "Jewish" father in "Abie's Irish Rose"? He runs away with the picture, if you ask me.

Lynn Farnol, the rising young publisher who, I am told, is heir to a southern fortune but is determined to show the "folks at home" he can make his own roll. "Too Richard," who gets his whatever happens to the other fellow. The popularity of horseback riding in the park this season. The tired-looking song plugger, milling around. "Pan Alley." And the endless hanging of pictures on the one hears in that belt now that the windows are open.

13 DENOMINATIONS TO BE REPRESENTED AT C. E. CONVENTION

Crusade With Christ Will Be
Theme of Meeting Here
Later in Month

Thirteen denominations will be represented at the thirty ninth annual convention of the Wisconsin Christian Endeavor Union on June 21, 22 and 23 in this city. They are Baptist, Congregational, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical, Moravian, Presbyterian, Reformed in America, Reformed in the United States, Primitive Methodist, Seventh Day Baptist, United Brethren, United Presbyterian and Union.

The convention theme will be "Crusade with Christ and the text is to be "Without me ye can do nothing." Every day of the convention has been arranged for with devotionals, singing, prayer, and addresses on topics of interest to the delegates, and fellowship hours.

The headquarters of the convention will be the First Congregational church and registration and assignment of delegates will be there at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, the first day of the convocation. A dinner for state officers, convention committee, convention speakers and district presidents, will be at 5:30 that afternoon.

The welcome address at the Thursday evening service will be given by Erick L. Madison, general chairman of the Appleton convention committee. The address of the evening will be made by the Rev. James Kelly, Glasgow, Scotland, vice president of the World Christian Endeavor Union and general secretary of the Scottish Sunday school association.

Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Waukesha, will be the speaker at the Friday morning conference. He will speak on "How Can We Crusade with Christ for Evangelism." Educational conferences will begin at 9:50 Friday morning. They will include conferences on Methods for Junior Leaders, Methods for Intermediate Superintendents and Leaders of Teen Age Groups, Methods for Union workers and Methods for Society Workers.

Vocations will be discussed by Miss K. A. Sorlsmaier, Menomonee, Wis., vocation superintendent of the Wisconsin Christian Endeavor Union, assisted by Dr. W. A. Ganfield, at dinner at 12:30 Friday at First Baptist church. On Friday afternoon Carlton M. Sherwood will lead the discussion on "How Can We Crusade with Christ for Christian Citizenship?" The second section of the educational conferences will be held after the conference led by Mr. Sherwood.

Denominational conferences are scheduled for Saturday and the international fellowship dinner at 5:30 at First Congregational church. The delegates will sit at tables reserved for their denominations and the theme will be

Efficiency Helps U. P. To Keep Earnings Up

Salt Lake City, Utah — (AP) — The Union Pacific Railroad Company, which operates 9,700 miles of road from Kansas City and Omaha westward to Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle on the Pacific Coast, is regarded as one of the most efficient transportation companies in the United States. Long hauls and increases in rates have been important factors in enabling the company normally to report the lowest transportation and operating ratio of any large road.

Revenue freight tonnage is diversified and has shown moderate growth in the past decade. The company receives other income averaging more than $16,000,000 yearly from subsidiaries and investments. Gross revenues fell off slightly last year, but the net operating income was larger than in 1926, due to other income and reduced operating costs.

loyalty to church with short talks by representatives of each denomination.

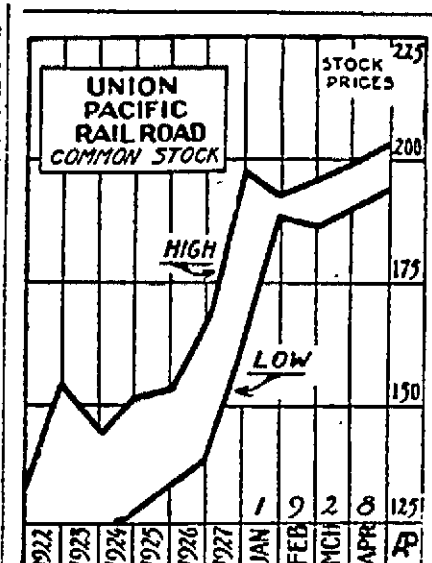

The Friday evening meeting will be held at Lawrence Memorial chapel and the Rev. Daniel A. Poling, New York, president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, editor in chief of the Christian Herald and minister of the Marble Collegiate church, will give the address. Clifford Earle will award banners to honor districts in the pre-convention registration contest at this meeting. Mr. Poling also will lead the conference Saturday morning at First Congregational church. The topic is "How Can We Crusade with Christ for World Peace."

Recreation plans will be the subject of a conference led by Carlton M. Sherwood Friday morning and the theme at the dinner at 12:30 will be "Why I am a Life Work Recruit," led by Miss Ethel Rusch.

The business session of the convention will be Saturday afternoon at First Congregational church. The district rallies will be announced and plans for raising the budget considered. A feature of Saturday afternoon will be recreation, provided by the Appleton convention committee, including a sight seeing trip of the Fox River valley. The convention parade is to be at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the marchers will terminate the parade at First Methodist church for the convention banquet.

The convention committee, state officers, new and old, and the district officers will be presented by Clifford Earle at the Saturday night meeting. Special Christian Endeavor Sunday school classes in each Sunday school will precede special Christian Endeavor or sermons in the various churches.

A junior pageant is to be given at the Sunday afternoon meeting and an address on "Why Junior Endeavor." The concluding meeting will include commissioning the officers, reading of resolutions, and an address by the Rev. Ira Landrith, Chicago, citizen-superintendent of the International Society of Christian Endeavor and musical selections. The thirty

Instructors Will Further Education During Vacation This Summer

Herb Heilig, director of the Appleton vocational school, will be among the directors and supervisors of vocational schools in America at a 7½ weeks summer session of the State Agricultural college at Fort Collins, Colo.

The group will discuss the problems which confront them during the year, as well as carrying on graduate school work. Mr. Heilig expects to gain his masters degree in three summer sessions, necessitating 12 credits each season.

Arthur Bouford, itinerant instructor in pulp and paper industry for Appleton, Green Bay, and Menasha vocational schools, and M. M. Hanson, itinerant instructor in plumbing for Appleton, Green Bay, Oshkosh, and Fond du Lac schools, will attend summer school at the University of Wisconsin. Miss Pansy Tash, home economics instructor, will attend Stout institute, according to Mr. Heilig.

IF YOU'RE PLANNING TRIP TO BRULE TRY ONE OF THESE ROUTES

Here Are Three Ways to Reach President's Summer Home

With the recent announcement that President Coolidge would spend his summer vacation on the Pierce estate on a little island in Brule river about six miles from the little village of Brule, many Appleton motorists have begun to plan trips to that vicinity with the hope of seeing the president.

An examination of the map shows that Brule is approximately 300 miles from Appleton and there are several routes to the place.

The route with the greatest mileage of concrete highways starts from Appleton on Highway 10 to Wau-paca; then take State Highway 54 to Wisconsin Rapids; State Highway 73 to Pittsville; state Highway 12 to Junction with Federal 10 and then on Federal 10 to Eau Claire; from Eau Claire to Eagleton on Highway 53 and from there to Bloomer on State 124; then Federal 53 to Solon Springs. Douglas County Highway P to Lake Nebagamon and Douglas County B into Brule.

The above route will take motorists around several detours to the wilderness home of the president.

A more northern route, which will guide tourists through a region of beauty but does not contain as much improved road is as follows: Highway 47 to Woodruff, from there on 61 to Hurley and then on Federal 2 to Brule.

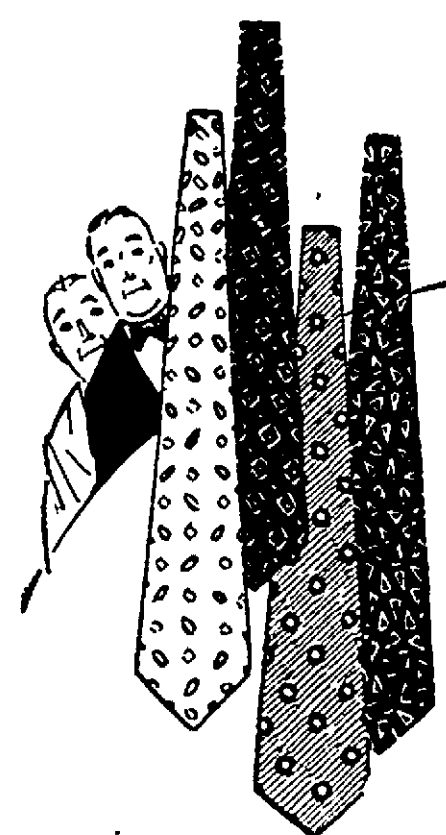

Probably the prettiest route of all, although it may be a little longer and the roads will not be quite so good, is one which leads through the land of lakes country of unsurpassed natural beauty. The road winds through deep

FARMERS BUSY WITH TOWN ROAD REPAIRS

Town road work has started in most of the towns surrounding Appleton and many farmers have neglected other work for the time being to repair the highways. The roads are being repaired with gravel and almost every other wagon on the various highways is loaded with material being taken to points where repair work is to be done. The roads must be repaired by the farmers or the towns will do the work and charge the expense to property owners.

Improved Kotex

Lowered Prices

Now 45c, was 65c formerly—great volume puts Kotex within reach of all

A MILLION new users hearing of the remarkable improvements in Kotex, have come to know it in the past few months.

They had heard that this wonderful sanitary pad, leader in its field, and the first disposable pad ever offered women, had been made—

Infinitely softer and more comfortable, ending binding and chafing—Shaped for better fitting—for non-detectability when worn.

They found it supreme, as always, in its other features. In high and instant absorbency, for instance. In disposability, too. Kotex filler is water-soluble, so disposing of it is a problem no longer.

Kotex deodorizes actively when worn. And simple to purchase wherever you are—at any drug, dry goods or department store.

The great demand made prices much lower

This greatly increased demand by women meant greater manufacturing efficiencies. And now, instead of charging more for the Improved Kotex, we are happy to announce prices are permanently reduced.

Today, madam, buy the new Improved Kotex, at the lowered prices. Sold everywhere.

DO WE OVERLOOK
BIG THINGS OF
LIFE AND WORLD

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NEVER have forgotten the remark of a neighbor during the World War. "This war doesn't interest me much. I haven't anything to do with it. The thing that bothers me most is a weasel that is killing off my young chicks."

He hasn't much on the rest of us when it comes to being interested in our own affairs. We read that an airship has been lost near the North Pole, lay down the paper and tell the family at dinner table how some fool cut in ahead of us on the boulevard.

Italy was torn by internal wars among its various states; Savonarola was preaching a new creed, the Duke di Medici was intriguing with the French and Machiavelli was getting ready for his saturnine career when Columbus, their fellow countryman, although a hated Genoese, was trying with three little boats to discover the other half of the world. But Italy was interested in itself. Columbus had gone begging elsewhere for his funds and his friends.

Yet the great force that left its mark on the world's history was not the brave French army, but the little hands of courageous families building a new country in the west.

We don't attach enough importance to the heroes who risk their lives in the interest of the future. Things are happening now that, however vague they may seem to us, will be of more use to posterity than the coming elections.

We should learn to enlarge our vision and try to understand the motives behind the risks the new vikings are taking.

Hero stuff? Stunt stuff? No, it is much more than that!

BREAKFAST—Sliced fresh pineapple, cereal cooked with figs, cream, over toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of carrot soup, bacon and endive sandwiches, cheese cakes, lemonade.

DINNER—Vegetable plate, chicken and pineapple salad, whole wheat bread, junkies, ice cream, coffee. Whenever serving a vegetable plate dinner keep in mind the necessity of choosing vegetables of contrasting colors. This makes not only for attractiveness but balance in diet and contrast in texture and flavor of the vegetables.

CHEESE CAKES

One cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-3 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Rub in butter with tips of fingers or pastry mixer. Add egg and mix thoroughly. Turn onto a slightly floured molding board and roll into a sheet 1/4 inch thick. Line individual patty pans with this mix and fill with the following:

CHEESE FILLING

One and one-half cups cottage cheese, 3 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup cleaned currants, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs.

Press whey from cheese until it is as dry as possible. Rub through a colander. Beat yolks of eggs. Add egg whites and mix thoroughly. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry and turn into prepared pans. Bake in a hot oven for the first 5 minutes to set the dough. Reduce heat and bake 25 minutes or until firm.

NEW PLANT HAS
TOMATOES AND POTATOES BOTH

BY ALLENE SUMNER

A potato-tomato plant has been perfected which gives us potatoes down stairs and tomatoes upstairs. In other words, the roots of the plant grow potatoes and the fruit on the vine above the earth is tomatoes. This is real news. Nothing in the long run is so important to human welfare in general as the production of more and better food. It must be that or fewer people. If the people do not decrease proportionately with the increase, better brains must see to it that all vines and trees and roots and grain bear to fullest capacity—to the extent of pumpkins and raspberries on one stalk.

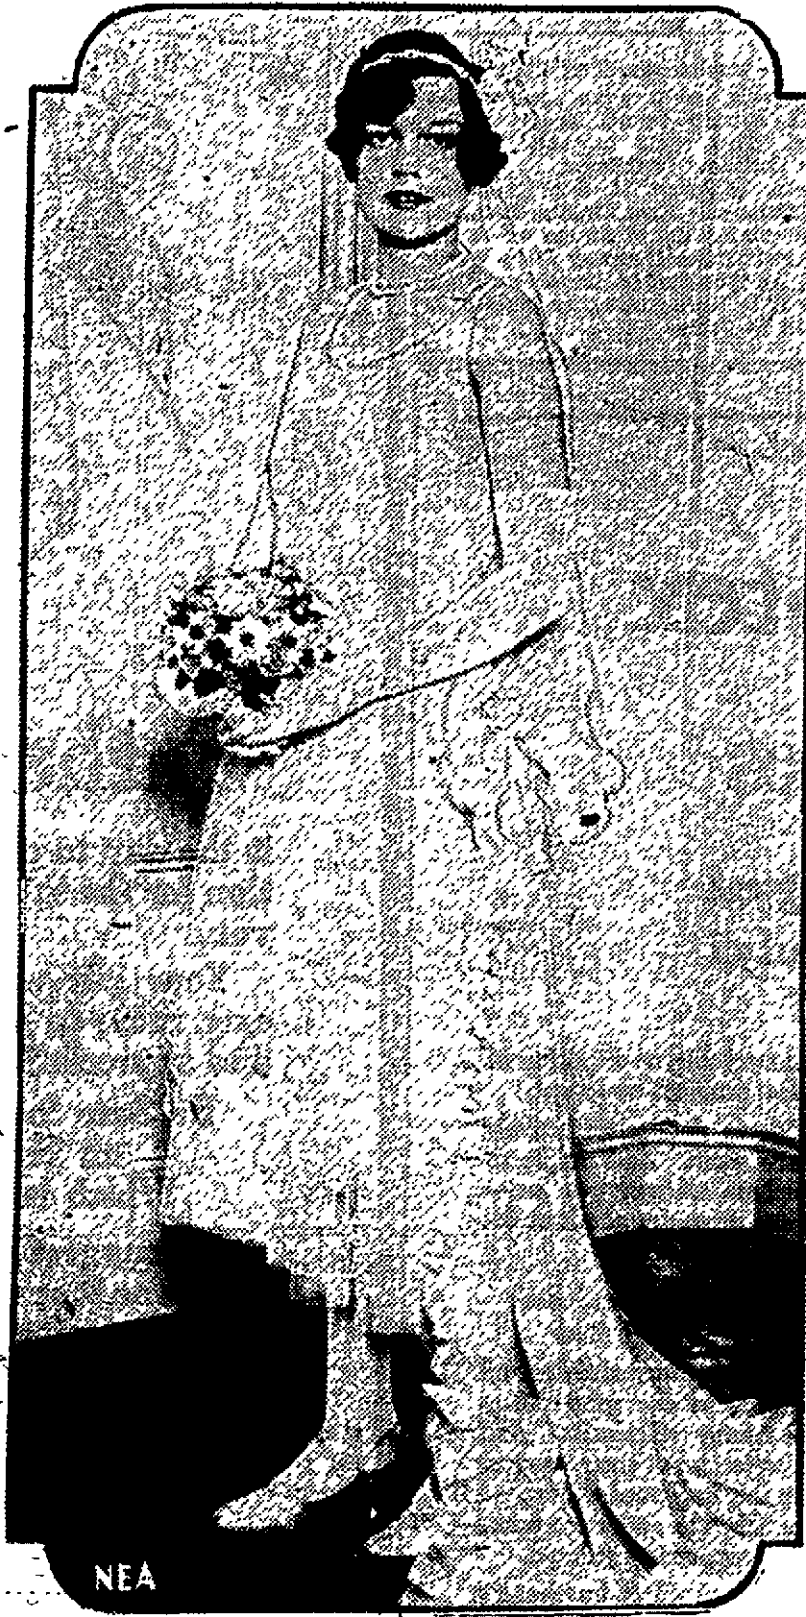

ROMANTIC TOUCHES

New summery frocks use many romantic touches in the way of lace berths, gay ribbon sashes, chiffon sleeves, and unusual and fancy collars.

SHE MET THE KING

Far different is a presentation at the Court of St. James, in London, than a visit to the White House. Here's a southern beauty in the special presentation gown she recently wore to meet Their Majesties. She is Miss Frances Howard, of Atlanta, Ga., whose late father was the "cotton king" of America. Her costume is point d'esprit over white chiffon, with chiffon ruching on the big bow and long side train.

Men Flaunt Color In Bathing Suits This Year

Upper left is a new "legless" suit of red stripes on tan; below, lattice work in glaring blue livens a cream two-piece suit; right, Richard Arlen chooses prison stripes and black shorts.

BY CURTIS WOOD
NEA Service Writer

New York—Bathing suits for the stronger sex have diverged right into the style class of clothing this year. If Mr. Man knows his strokes, he will swim this summer in a novelty bathing suit that, by its color and design, could be nothing but this season's model.

For the plain old black or navy blue suit has been relegated, socially speaking, to the aged gentlemen who still hang their clothes on a hickory limb but no longer go near the water.

STRIKING DESIGNS

Bathing suits this summer have a flair for design, first of all. They answer that incessant call for something new. One glance at them prove that men are getting clothes conscious.

Mottled stripes, checks, jazzy lightning flashes of crimson, orange, bright blue, vivid green across white, tan or a dark background will bring life and dash to beaches this year.

Prison stripes are quite the thing. So are collegiate ones. These are graduated lines of color on a contrasting background. Then there are some that have tricky diamonds, polka dots, checkers and so on, in black-white, red-black and other color combinations. There are even modernistic ones with broken geometric patterns woven into them.

FOR SUN BATHS

The newest thing in bathing suits is the "legless" model. Of course it is a misnomer. The trunks are shorter than the outside, which looks about the way an elongated shirt would.

This suit is cut much deeper in the armholes and neck and with its very short length gives a much better break so far as sunbaths are concerned than the older style suit. A fine all-over red striped pattern on tan is one of this new style.

It looks as if most men preferred the lighter upper and dark shorts type of suit, with a belt for decoration. Some of these have trecky bandings, among which one suit in cream has bright, penetrating green lattice work design across the bottom of the shorts and the top of the shirt. Monograms are appearing for decoration. Some are round, diamond shaped or other decorative shapes. This sort of personal touch gets better and better.

MOTHER LOVE
SAVES TWO — DAUGHTERS

BY ALLENE SUMNER

An old and young mother gave the lives for their children the other day. Mrs. Veribus Allen of Fairmount, Ind., hurried herself upon the knives of a disc harrow on her farm in order to keep it from passing over the body of her little 5-year-old son who had fallen before it.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Freeman, 80, of Bradford, Pa., died in saving the life of her middle-aged daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Cook. Mother and daughter were cleaning house when the daughter

"MOM"
Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Darling Mom

I think I told you about Shirley Wells being in an accident. That bump on the head, I mean. Her father was going to sue Ted because Shirley claimed she begged him to slow up and he wouldn't. At first she didn't want her dad to do anything about it, but as it turned out she had to have an X-ray taken and it showed something wrong.

She's been quite sick. So her father engaged a lawyer. Shirley got a letter from the company Ted works for, asking her to give them an account of what happened. Shirley didn't show the letter to anyone, but she answered it and said that she had received an injury while driving with Ted when his car hit a rise or some obstruction in the road. She said he was speeding.

Well, the next day a man came to see her and said he was from Ted's employers. He showed Shirley a type-written copy of her letter and asked her to read it. He explained that he merely wanted to verify it as her story of the accident. Shirley didn't find any changes in it, so he signed it on the dotted line.

The day after that, the lawyer her father had engaged asked her to come to his office if she was able. Shirley staggered down town and what do you think he showed her?

A type-written statement over her signature, in which she exonerated Ted from all blame for her accident. The lawyer was furious and wanted to know when and why she had signed such a paper. Shirley was flabbergasted.

At first she denied having signed anything but she admitted it was her signature all right. Finally she realized what had happened. The first page and a few lines on the second sheet were taken up with the type-written copy of the letter she had written to Ted's employers when they asked her to give her account of the accident. But she had signed the second page near the bottom, leaving a gap of space to be filled in later.

As it was all done by typewriter Shirley could not prove that she had signed only part of it. Someone had typed in a lot more that her lawyer said ruined her case entirely. The other side offered to settle for a very small sum and Shirley's lawyer advised her to take it. It won't pay for the treatments she must have for several weeks; and it was a lesson about Lovingly.

ter broke through the railing of the second floor porch. The aged mother held her as long as she could, but was unable to pull her back, and was dragged with her daughter to the sidewalk below rather than give up her grasp. The mother died 15 minutes later. The daughter will live.

And such is the power of the maternal instinct that it is more wonderful for each mother to die than to see her child die. Much is said about the price of motherhood, its bonds and responsibilities. The biggest price is the constant fear engendered by too much mother love.

THE TINYMITS

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"I'm glad our boat will be all right," said Scouty, "but it's out of sight. How are we going to find it, when we're stranded way up here. There's naught but water down below. Where we can go to, I don't know. Perhaps you've tried to find it, but you've hindered us, I fear."

Then Clowny cried, "That isn't kind to say such things. I think you'll find that his intentions were real good. Let's wait until we see." The flying man then said, "Thanks, lad! I'm glad you do not think I'm bad. And don't you worry 'bout your boat. Just leave that all to me."

"This platform, built upon this tree is just the place for you to be. You will not have to wait so long until you'll know I'm right. If you all wish to go, right now, back to your boat, I'll show you how. I'd like to have you stay a while, but it is nearing night."

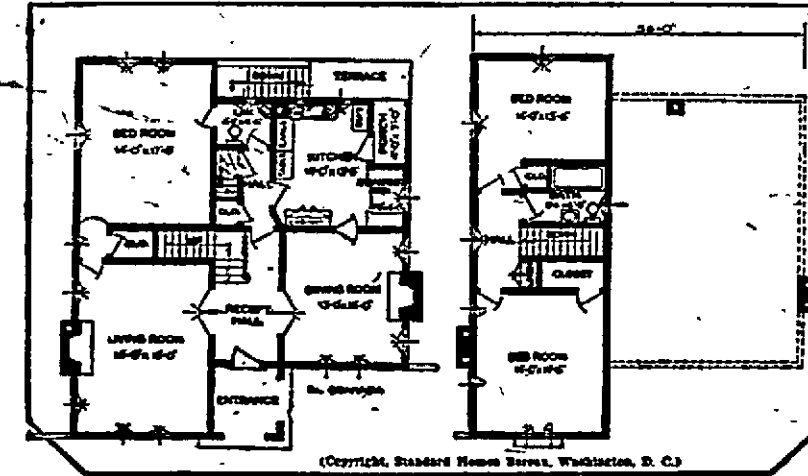

The man then pointed to a place that brought a smile to each one's face. It was a little opening along the platform's side. Then Copy cried mid merry hoots, "Wry, it's a dandy shoot-the-chutes. It really looks quite tempting. Can we Tinies take a ride?"

"Of course you can," their kind friend said. "Just sit right down and go ahead. All small folks like to shoot-the-chutes because it's so safe. It's safe, because it isn't rough and you will find it's steep enough to give you all a thrilling trip when all your riding's done."

"This slide is going to make a hit with me," cried Clowny. "Watch me sit right down and show you how it's done." The bunch began to roar. Then, with the others close behind, a queer thought came to Clowny's mind. Said he, "Say, while we're sliding, who knows where we're heading for?"

A TOUCH OF OLD SPAIN

EXOTIC and picturesque is the El Granada, with a Spanish feeling in its pink stucco, its grilled window balcony, and red-tiled roof. The long flat roof over the dining room and kitchen command the artistic eye. Here is the ideal sun parlor, the place to relax, read and grow in tune with the outdoors. Two bedrooms let onto it each spacious and airy with double exposure. The typical Spanish entrance is a feature of the El Granada, a tiled floor just a step off the ground and arched doorways that are suggestive of a raton's seclusion.

The floor plan of the downstairs is an unusual and appealing as the exterior. A square dining room, with a long row of smallpaned windows and a large comfortable fireplace on another side is connected with the living room through a sizable reception hall. The living room has another fireplace. There is a bed room downstairs with

BABIES HAVE EXERCISE IN GYM IN BERLIN

BY ALLENE SUMNER

There's a baby gymnasium in Berlin where babies a year old are taken for regular setting-up exercises and rub-downs. Science says now that infants do not get enough exercise and must take it artificially just as do their elders. Dear, dear, more expense for parents, to say nothing of the bother of taking a baby to and from the gym!

Can it be that such modern necessities as this are a substitution for the old-time womanly occupations of candle making and flax spinning? If it isn't one thing, it's another.

Cute in a Baby-
Awful at Three
-and it's Dangerous

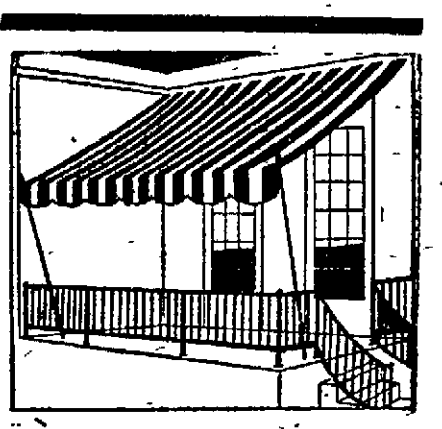

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 80 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine. adv.

DANCING PUPILS PRESENT REVUE AT THEATRE HERE

Opening with a Wedgewood classical number, one of the most striking curtain-raisers that has ever been used in an amateur performance here, the Bannister revue with sixty Appleton dancers, whose ages range from two to twenty, began Monday at the Appleton theatre. It will show for three afternoons and nights.

The Wedgewood scene, patterned after the pottery of the same name, is a study in blue and white, characterized by slow, graceful movements. A unique feature of the number is the exit of the dancers at its close. Instead of running to the wings the dancers are born off the stage with the curtains which part in the middle. Parts of the revue, given at New London, Friday, were well received. Soloists were Betsy Rosenblom, Dolores, Tustison, Beatrice Bosser, Eunice Zuehlke, Vesper Chamberlain, Virginia Hoesgood and Vera Lea Walmer. Mary Plank did an athletic solo dance. Not all the star numbers, however, were displayed that night. Those featured in the Wedgewood number, which was first given at the Roxy Theatre, New York are Nellie Joslyn, Eleanor Johnson, Alice Volk, Catherine Small, Margery Spector, Eunice Zuehlke, Vesper Chamberlain, Virginia Hoesgood and Leone Tennison. This number also was shown at New London where it was especially well received even with an absence of scenery and special music.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

Continuing the series of bidding questions, how many of the three following can you answer before reading the replies given below? Score in all cases 10-cents (nothing nothing).

TODAY'S HAND

♠-X-X-X
♥-X-X
♦-X-X-X
♣-A-X-X

1. What should South (Dealer) declare, holding the above hand?
2. What should North (Third Hand) declare with it? South having bid one Heart and West having passed?

3. What should East (Fourth Hand) declare with it? South having bid one No Trump, West having doubled and North having passed?

THE ANSWERS

1. Pass. The question of whether a Dealer who holds Ace, King and two small of a suit and no side strength should bid or pass initially, is one on which the expert opinion of the country is not unanimous. It is nearly so, but there are a very few bidders with quite expert who favor bidding with this combination. The holding is that it makes it dangerous to a partner to raise with the minimum strength that conventionally justifies the raise of a partner's initial suit bid of one. It is a mistake to make initial bids so light as to create uncertainty in partners who are considering whether or not to assist.

2. Two Clubs. The hand is of the dealer type, having only two small cards in partner's suit and some strength elsewhere. A pass would announced either that North had normal heart assistance or had no bid with which to deny. The two-Club bid notified the Dealer that North has less than normal assistance for Heart, strength in Clubs and no other assistance for No Trump.

3. Two Spades. The answer to a partner's double should be made with a long suit (four cards or more). As between two available suits or equal length, the stronger should be selected if both are Majors or both Minors, but when one is a Major and the other a Minor, as in this case, the preference should be given to the Major even when the Minor is materially stronger. The doubler presumably is anxious that a Major be the trump, provided he can find four cards of it in his partner's hand; the high cards of the Minor will help the Major declaration, whereas the low cards of the Major are not apt to be helpful for the Minor bid.

EPWORTH LEAGUE INSTITUTE WILL OPEN SATURDAY

Dr. J. A. Holmes, Appleton, Speaker at Forest Junction Meeting

Forest Junction—Opening with a "get-together" meeting at 7:30 Saturday evening, June 16, the third annual Francis Asbury Epworth league institute will be under way at the Methodist campgrounds, about a half mile and three-quarter miles east of here. Combining with the annual campmeeting the latter part of the following week, the institute will open an eight day period of religious services for the Milwaukee district of the Chicago-Northwest conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. The meetings here follow the annual campmeeting at Wausau and precede that at Watertown.

The grounds have been placed in readiness for camping parties who may wish to pitch their tents for the occasion; cottages have been repainted preparatory to their occupation; and streets have been resurfaced with gravel. The dining hall with dormitory accommodations, erected last year, will again be open under the management of the local pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Kramer.

A number of special speakers have been secured for the services. The morning sermon Sunday, June 17, will be preached by Dr. L. W. Lesse, president of the Chicago Training school and in the afternoon a lecture on "Life" will be delivered by Dr. J. A. Holmes, Appleton. Epworth league methods will be presented with forum discussions at 9:20 every morning led by Marvin Meyer and Miss Lydia Ebel, Milwaukee. Mission studies will be presented by the Rev. Frederick Bankhardt, furloughed Chinese missionary; Bible studies by the Rev. Rudolf Malek; church school methods by the Rev. Charles Lotz, Milwaukee; and periods of morning watch will be conducted at 6:30 by Miss Susie Kreutziger of the Bethesda hospital, Cincinnati. H. J. Weigle, Chicago publisher, again will be present for children's meetings and song services.

For the closing services Saturday and Sunday, June 23 and 24, the Rev. Frank Folsom, president of Morningside college, Sioux City, Ia., and the Rev. Emil Hemke, superintendent of the Quincy, Ill. old people's home, will be present.

District pastors who appear on the program are John Bury, Fond du Lac; Philip Kevanue, T. C. Nagler, Green Bay; J. L. Huppert, Sheboygan; K. Krohn, Chase; A. R. E. Schreiber, Manitowish. The Rev. A.

Russian Youth's English Proved Very Good Latin

Warsaw, Poland—(AP)—Abraham Noz of London, wrote to his brother, Moses Noz of Warsaw, inviting him to London.

"But first learn English," said Abraham.

Moses found a student named Mruk, who said he would teach him English within a few months.

Moses was industrious. In three months he sent a letter to Abraham: "I've learned it," he wrote in Yiddish. "Look for me soon."

"I'll come over for you," said Abraham to Moses and he came to Warsaw.

When they met after 30 years' separation, Moses, proud of his English, said to Abraham:

"Salve, Abraham, frater tuus Moses te salutavit."

"What?" said Abraham. "Salve, Abraham," repeated Moses.

VETS OF CIVIL WAR GATHER AT MADISON FOR ANNUAL REUNION

Parade, Probably for the Last Time, Will Feature Gathering on Thursday

Madison—(P)—The men who wore the blue gathered here Tuesday for the 62nd annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is to continue through Thursday.

A feature of today's program is a pilgrimage to Camp Randall, now used as athletic field by the University of Wisconsin, but which served as army camp for Union forces during the Civil war.

On the old camp ground, the encampment's program was to open at 3 o'clock this afternoon with a talk by Bascom B. Clarke, "only regular member of the G. A. R." His subject is "Anecdotes of a Johnny Reb." H. C. Eaton, Fond du Lac, department commander, was to reply with "Experiences of a Boy in Blue."

Meanwhile, the council of administration was to meet at 3 o'clock to pass on credentials.

Tonight there will be a reception tendered the veterans by city and state in the executive chambers of the capitol. The veterans are to assemble in the rotunda on the first floor at 8 o'clock, and will be received by Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, Mayor A. G. Schmiedeman, President Glenn Frank, Justices of the supreme court, and officers of the regular army on duty in Madison.

An orchestra, located in the rotunda, will play popular music, including all the tunes familiar of Civil war days.

Wednesday will be devoted largely to the routine business of the meeting. The commanders address at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening and the Wisconsin Relief Corps will institute will be the center of attraction. The program for this event will include music by the Central high school orchestra; invocation by state and city officials, and entertainment by the city high schools.

The annual parade Thursday morning around capitol square, in which the veterans will pass in review for perhaps the last time, is expected to be the most colorful event of the encampment.

VISIT OF COOLIDGE GIVES STATE GOOD CHANCE TO ADVERTISE

Wausau—(P)—The Outdoor Club of Wisconsin is going to urge the rest of the country to "Keep Cool With Coolidge this summer."

It has prepared colored stickers bearing the message and a picture of the President, which are to be pasted by visiting tourists on letters they send from the state to their friends back home.

The stickers will be available to tourists in hotels and garages, and officials of the club predict that hundreds of thousands of visitors will use them to add a touch of local color to their mail.

President Coolidge's visit is expected by the club to give Wisconsin "the greatest opportunity in her existence of establishing herself as the leading vacation spot in the United States."

PHYSICIANS GATHER HERE FOR LECTURES

Men of Nationwide Fame Address Joint District Meeting of Medical Men

More than 100 physicians and surgeons from the Sixth and Eighth Councilor districts, State Medical Society of Wisconsin, gathered at the Elie club here yesterday afternoon and heard lectures by members of their profession who have gained nationwide note.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., was the first speaker on the program, giving an address on "How to Diagnose Gastro-Intestinal Disease from a Good History."

The scheduled speech at 3 o'clock by Dr. G. W. Crile, Cleveland, was cancelled when Dr. Crile was unable to appear and Dr. T. E. Jones, Cleveland, stepped in to speak instead.

Dr. Paul B. Magnuson, Chicago, spoke on "Lief of Disabilities, both Old and New, in Fractures Around and Near Joints, and a scheduled address by Dr. G. F. Suker, also of Chicago, was cancelled because of the absence of the speaker.

The only speaker on the evening program, following a banquet at the Conway hotel, was Dr. J. J. McGowan, Milwaukee, president of the state medical society.

Physicians attending the lectures were from Marinette, Portage, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and nearby cities.

SAYS CITY'S MILK SUPPLY IS CLEAN

Deputy Health Officer Predicts Little Difficulty in Conforming With New Ordinance

Appleton's milk supply compares favorably in bacteria count with that of other Wisconsin cities, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer, but the count will be considerably lower after the new ordinance calling for clean milk goes into effect.

At Madison, the entire supply is under 60,000 bacteria count. The supply there is divided into three classes, certified, Pasteurized and grade A, and all employees on farms furnishing grade A milk are thoroughly examined and the certified milk delivered is first approved by the Milwaukee and Chicago commissions.

According to Mr. Sanders, practically the same condition will exist here. All milk must pass the Chicago count and the new ordinance contains no stricter classes than that of the Illinois city.

He called attention to the fact that of seven samples taken a week ago, six of them were under the bacteria count of 50,000 and that all dealers said the count could easily be lowered with little effort on their part.

Animals Galore Are Feature Of Circus To Show Here This Month

"Miss Iowa," a hippopotamus weighing 6,000 pounds and consuming 100 pounds of food daily, is but one of the many features of Robbins Brothers circus, to show here June 16.

Who ever heard of christening a hippopotamus?

That is just what happened the other day to Miss Iowa, the big "hip" with the Robbins Bros. circus coming to Appleton Saturday, June 16. And the sponsor was no less a person than Governor John Hammond of Iowa.

Boosters of that state were looking for something that would advertise the commonwealth in its principal industry. Iowa people get lots of money from the sale of hogs. Someone thought of the water hog—the hippopotamus—and thus it came about that the young hippopotamus, recently imported from Africa, be named Miss Iowa.

They know she would travel through the eighteen states of the corn belt and attract a great deal of attention. Therefore it would broadcast the name Iowa. The governor came out with members of his cabinet to the winter quarters of the circus near Des Moines, and by performing the usual function of sprinkling water upon the big animal, the "hip" was duly named Miss Iowa, and today carries that name. She weighs six thousand pounds and eats over one hundred pounds of food daily and is growing at an amazing rate.

Miss Iowa, is but one of the many animal features with the Big show coming here. There is Big Bingo, the largest elephant in the world. This huge pachyderm travels in a special 72 foot car and has a corps of attendants to look after his daily wants. He is known as the "Mountain of Flesh" and is so enormous in size that he cannot parade. This is due to the bridges over culverts that he might have to pass that could not hold his enormous weight. There are lions, tigers, hyenas, pumas, leopards, kangaroos, zebras, water buffalos, llamas, herds of zebras and fifteen camels along with five herds of elephants. It is one of the largest traveling zoos in the world today.

The Robbins Brothers is the largest circus in the world giving a street parade. It will pass through the principal streets at noon and be followed by two performances, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. A special feature of the show is the free Chevrolet auto show which will be held in a special tent, 60 feet long by 40 feet wide, built especially for the purpose and erected on the circus midway. Nine Chevrolet models, the convertible sport car, the imperial landau sedan, coach, touring car, sedan, roadster, light delivery chassis, and utility express truck will be shown. The S. and O. Chevrolet company and associated dealers will sponsor the show while it is in Appleton.

majority of instances, was the genuine thing.

Edward Sedgwick, famous for "Slide, Kelly, Slide," "Tin Flies" and other well-known films, directed.

ROMANCE UNDER THE BIG TOP
Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes, one of the most popular romantic combinations the screen offers, appear as circus performers in First National's "Three Ring Marriage" playing at the Elite theatre today and Wednesday.

"Three Ring Marriage" offers something distinctly new and modern in circus story plots and screen romances. Adapted from Dixie Willson's "Help Yourself to Hay," a magazine story, it deals with the frank pursuit of a cowboy hero by a cowgirl heroine, right up to the time she ropes and ties him with a wedding ring. She follows him from her ranch to a circus and travels with the circus as a performer, in order to win him!

The screen story, however, begins with the circus and deals almost exclusively with circus atmosphere throughout. The entire film troupe traveled with the Al G. Barnes show in order to take every phase of the colorful life they depict. Moreover, circus performers, sideshow freaks and other regular attaches of the show have important parts in the picture.

Among the film players who support Miss Astor and Hughes in "Three Ring Marriage" are Lawford Davidson, Alice White and Yola d'Avril.

STATE RURAL CARRIERS WILL MEET AT WAUPACA

The annual convention of Wisconsin state rural mail carriers will be held at Waupaca, Wis., July 23, 24 and 25 according to a bulletin from the postmaster general's office, Washington, D. C. Rural carriers who wish to attend the meeting will be permitted to go for a period of not more than six days provided their routes are taken by substitutes. The leave of absence to attend the convention is charged to the carriers' vacation periods. Practically all Appleton carriers will attend the meeting. It was reported from the local office Monday.

J. R. Whitman, manager of the local J. C. Penney company store is on an extended business visit in New York. He expects to return the latter part of the week.

ZONING ORDINANCE READY FOR COUNCIL

Committee Recommends Placing Two Sections Under Manufacturing Classification

The city council ordinance committee, in session Monday evening, recommended that the chapter in the revised municipal code, commonly known as the Zoning Chapter, be passed as it now stands.

This section, upon which many meetings have been held, has been in the process of preparation for several months by J. Hugo Keller, revisor of ordinances.

A proposed amendment to the ordinance by which Lots 1, 2 and 3, Block 53, Harrison Lawburg plat, and several other lots in that section be included in the local business district was recommended but another proposal to bring the south 26.5 feet of Lots 12 and 13, block 2, Clarks addition, in the Fifth ward, under the commercial light manufacturing was objected to.

Members of the committee could see no reason for not placing Lots 13, 22, 23, in block 50, Belle Heights addition, Fifth ward, under the light manufacturing classification and that change was recommended.

LOWLY WHITE SOX GIVE YANKS SECOND STRAIGHT DEFEAT

Blankenship Holds Heavy Hitting Champs To Four Safeties To Win By 6-1

Reds Down Giants by Rally but Cardinals Win to Cling to Cincy Heels

The New York Yankees have struck their second "slump" of the season. They've lost two ball games in a row; their defeats have at last reached double figures, and their won and lost percentage has slipped below .500. There appears little reason to believe, however, that Miller Huggins has started to go in for any worrying on an intensive scale.

Oddly enough it was none other than the lowly Chicago White Sox who reached up to the American League cellar to smother the Yankees for their tenth straight Monday.

Reverse no. 10 can be attributed to airtight pitching by Ted Blankenship who held murderers' row to four hits and would have had a 6 to 0 shutout but for Johnny Mostil's error in the seventh inning when the Yankees scored their only run.

SIMONS AND ORWELL
Successful home runs by Al Simmons and Fox in the eighth enabled the Athletics to down Detroit, 4 to 2, and cut the Yankees' lead to a mere nine and a half games. Ossie Orwell and Sam Gibson pitched effectively but Sam saw his hoped-for sail away in the wings of those two circuits out.

The St. Louis Browns consolidated their place just back of the Athletics in the standings, by turning back the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1. Arvin Crowder fanned six and allowed only that many hits.

The Cleveland Indians took it on the chin again. Washington was ten off with a 7 to 6 victory in ten innings. It was the Indians' 14th defeat in 17 games.

Meanwhile the National League contenders—and there are about seven of them—continued their merry cut-throat competition.

Five runs in the ninth gave the Cincinnati Reds their second straight over the New York Giants, 7 to 5. Val Picinich hit two homers.

St. Louis clung to the Reds' pace-making heels with an easy triumph over the Boston Braves, 8 to 4. Grover Cleveland Alexander showed a surprising return to form.

BUSH WINS FOR CUBS
Guy Bush outpitched McWeeny and Ehrhardt and the Chicago Cubs took the first game of the series with a 3-0 victory. St. Louis' timely hitting was the feature.

The Pittsburgh Pirates' patched up lineup was so full of holes that the Phillies drove through to win 6 to 4 scoring four of the runs in the seventh inning. Hurst's homer with one on was the big blow of the rally.

LITTLE CHUTE SQUAD BEATS KIMBERLY BOYS
Kimberly—Little Chute defeated the Junior Holy Name team of this village in a rugged game of baseball Sunday afternoon on the Kimberly diamonds, 6-4. Though injured, Vander Zanden pitched a good game, striking out eight men but also walked seven. De Wildt relieved him in the eighth inning, and fanned four men. The Kimberly lineup was crippled by the absence of Buck LeMay, Jackstop, and Matt Dupont, first sacker. Wildenberg, Little Chute pitcher had ten strike-outs. Next Sunday Kimberly journeys to Sunny Corners.

Mullen believes Mueller is about the most formidable lightweight contender in the ring today.

Billy Evans Picks Best Rookies Of American Loop

BY BILLY EVANS
Eight of the outstanding rookies during the first two months of the American League campaign are Ralph Kress of the Browns, Chambers Cissell of the White Sox, Ed Morris and Doug Taft of the Red Sox, Al Shealey and Leo Durocher of the Yankees, and Carl Lind and Langford of the Indians. Four are infielders, two are outfielders and two are pitchers.

Cissell and Kress, shortstops, not only have been playing a very acceptable game field, but each has been getting his share of hits. Kress, without exception, has been the sensation of the early race. The headed youngster not only started blazing away in great shape, but he has kept up the fast gain in a manner which already has stamped him as a future great.

Kress, in fact, has done the unusual. "Red" has hit .229 in the Western League, an organization considerably removed from big time competition. A .220 figure in the American would have appeared to about be his batting zone.

But during the initial two months of the "Red" season, he has averaged better than .275. What is more, he hasn't displayed any outward signs of letting up, though his percentage is almost certain to drop a bit when the pitchers have had more chances to look him over. First-year men aren't very often boasting a .275 record in the major leagues.

Cissell, of course, hasn't been the sensation of Kress has. But the White Sox recruit, nevertheless, has fully lived up to advance notices. At times he's been a bit erratic in the field, but many of his errors have been on the other side of the diamond. He has attempted to stop Cissell's runs on a great deal of Donle Bush, except as to physique, when Bush first came to the Tigers. Bush went after everything between second and first and third. Cissell does the same.

Taft of the rejuvenated Red Sox has added more than a little punch to the Carrigan offensive. He hits 'em hard and when he connects the ball usually is due for a long ride. Taft also has done well as a fielder with Ken Williams and Flagstead helps from a pretty good pasture trip.

Morris stacks up as the pitching end of the early season, at least. The big right-hander has turned in one startling performance after another. Were he working for a stronger hitting club, his record, obviously, would border on the sensational.

Boston obtained Morris from Mobile of the Southern Association. He seems sure to make a name for himself in big league diamonds.

Lind and Langford have been two of the real stars in the Indians' play. Oddly enough, neither was considered a regular at the opening of the grind. But when Morgan was injured in the first game of the campaign at Chicago, Sam got his chance and the big fellow has been in there almost continuously since. Langford during the first two months topped all his mates in batting.

INDIANS ADD TO LEAD AT BREWERS' EXPENSE
Chicago—(AP)—The opening contests of the so-called temporary elimination series in the American Association have added to the leads of Indianapolis, Toledo and Kansas City, the one, two, three pace-makers.

The Indians held their game and a half lead for first place by turning back Milwaukee Monday, 4 to 3, in a game in which ten hits in three innings. Toledo clung to second place by taking the series opener from St. Paul, 7 to 4, and Kansas City increased its margin on third place by defeating Louisville, 6 to 3.

Columbus was the only team among the more lowly to rise to victory, out-batting Milwaukee to win 11 to 3.

Milwaukee—Joey Sangor, Milwaukee, defeated Santiago Zorilla, Panama (10). Joe Azzarella, Milwaukee, won a technical knockout over Pedro Amador, Panama (8).

SHIOCTON BALLERS BEAT CAM-SCHULZ

Home Team Takes Slugging Match from Local Nine, 13-11

In a slugging match Sunday afternoon at Shiocton, the Cameron-Schulz ball club of Appleton fell before the Shiocton team of the Tri-County League by a score of 13-11. The home crew got eight hits and Appleton had 13 and both were credited with two double plays. Mayeski started on the mound for the C-S men but was pounded to all corners of the lot. Kranzusch relieved him in the sixth and held the slugging Shioctons to a single run the rest of the way.

Mayeski fanned 3 and allowed 14 hits and Kranzusch fanned 2 and allowed 4 hits. Gielkey started the twirling for Shiocton and was relieved by Summerfield in the fifth. He fanned 4 and allowed 5 hits. Summerfield fanned 1 and allowed 7 hits. He held the C-S boys scoreless until the ninth when they started a rally getting 7 runs on 6 hits. He was relieved by Walford who then checked the invaders.

Morse was the bat star for the winners getting three hits out of four times at bat and scoring four runs. Palmer was credited with two doubles. Laabs did the big stick work for the C and S crew, getting three hits and two runs. He got a three base hit in the ninth with three on base. Black got a home run with one on.

SISLER COMES THROUGH GREAT FOR BOSTON NINE
Walved out of the American League and saved from the minors by a friendly hand from an unexpected quarter, George Sisler is attracting national attention by the fine game he is playing on first base for the Boston Braves.

Four years ago Sisler was one of the most valuable players in baseball. He could not have been bought for a quarter of a million dollars, but at the height of his career he was stricken with sinus trouble and his career was almost ended.

Last winter the Washington Senators bought him from the St. Louis Browns for a song and he was slated for a regular job, but he was benched and waivers were asked upon him. He was on his way out of the major leagues when he happened to meet Rogers Hornsby. He told Hornsby he was sure he had a lot of baseball in him.

Hornsby was then made manager of the Braves and his first act was to claim Sisler and put him to work. Sisler may not make a pennant winner out of the Braves, but he has improved the club and Hornsby is improving it with other wise trades.

CRITZ CREDITED WITH RED'S GREAT SHOWING
The reason gives around the National League say that the real reason for the Cincinnati Reds is Hughes Critz, that Critz has made Horace Ford and that Ford made the left side of the infield.

Critz was not one of those contented players last year and when he was gentled with a new contract it was too late for him to get going. He has been ready and going from the start of the season this year, and so have the Reds.

WHITE SOX STICK TO UNIFORMS UNTIL LOSS
Chicago—(AP)—If the White Sox perform the miracle of sweeping the Yankee series and then continue their winning streak, the fans probably will see some unkempt uniforms.

Sunday, the White Sox donned their new uniforms—white with black stripes. They won. Monday, they won in the same attire.

"Now we won't be able to send those suits to the laundry until they lose a game or two," remarked a club official.

PIRATES SIGN CHICAGO UNIVERSITY BALL STAR
Chicago—(AP)—Kyle Anderson, captain of the University of Chicago's football team, has signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates and will report on June 20. He played shortstop with the Maroons and was a flashy fielder in addition to being a leading hitter in the Big Ten.

THIRD WARD GROCERS DESIRE BALL BATTLE
The Third Ward Grocers softball team is looking for games with any softball team of Appleton or vicinity. Managers desiring games should write Schneider's Grocery, 525 S. Cherry-st. or call 442.

MANY BOSSES

Cy Williams

OLD CY WILLIAMS MOST BOSSED STAR

Phillie Star in 17th Season Has Had 14 Different Managers

BY BILLY EVANS
"Baseball's" most-bossed major league player."

That's the rather unique distinction belonging to old Cy Williams of the much-pummeled Phillies. And to be winning any honors with such a club the Quakers are wont to put on field is quite an accomplishment in itself.

Old Cy now is on his seventeenth big league trail—and is toiling for his fourteenth major circuit manager. He's had a new pilot for nearly every one of his main top campaigns.

Old Cy came to the majors back in 1912 with the Cubs. The next season Cy had a new chief in scrappy John Evers, another one-time Cub star. Evers lasted only a single campaign, and in 1914 Hank O'Day, National League umpire, was appointed manager of the Cubs—and Williams was working for his third boss in as many years.

One chase proved enough for even for an umpire and the following season Cy was calling Roger Bresnahan, old Giant catcher, "boss." In 1916 Joe Tinker, still another of the old Cub entourage, was Cy's pilot while in 1917 Fred Mitchell took over the managerial reins, making six bosses for the much-bossed Mr. Williams in six seasons.

Mitchell remained in the pilot's role for three years, but at the end of the 1927 grand old Cy was traded to the Phillies for Dode Paskert—and gained another boss in Pat Moran. The next year came Jack Coombs and Gavvy Cravath as Philly managers and Cy's record went up to nine different bosses in eight campaigns.

Cravath still was Williams' chief in 1929, but in 1921 Bill Donovan was the manager, only to be supplanted by Irvin Wilhelm later the same year. Then, in 1922, came Art Fletcher, former Giant shortstop. Williams had Fletcher for his boss five years, until McNamara getting the post year ago.

That made No. 13 and Cy thought the limit had been reached. But when he reported for work this spring he found No. 14 on the job in Burt Shotton, one-time outfielder of the Browns and Cardinals.

Yes, old Cy Williams has been a much-bossed player. But he has thrived just the same. In fact, bosses mean little or less to the veteran fly-chaser as long as the old spot remains in its accustomed shape.

Williams ranks next to Max Carey as the oldest outfielder in point of service in the National League. Carey has been on one year longer than Cy.

ACE HUDKINS SHOWS HE KNOWS DEFENSIVE GAME
Chicago—(AP)—Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, who challenges Mickey Walker for his middleweight crown at the White Sox baseball park, June 21, has convinced several hundred Chicago fans that he knows something about defensive as well as offensive fighting.

The "Nebraska Wildcat" is famous for his sweet attack, but his defense has been classed as weak. Monday, he sparred several rounds with Dixie Kid and Bill Adkinson of Arkansas City, blocking neatly and punching straight and hard.

Walker, too, put in a strenuous day, revealing his usual form. He boxed three rounds with Jack McKenna, Chicago, after he had worked seven rounds at bag punching, rope skipping and abdominal exercises.

NATIONAL AGREES WITH AMERICAN ON STARTING GOLF MEET TUESDAY
New York—(AP)—Most outstanding professionals and amateurs will meet the National Open Golf Championship at Olympia Fields Chicago next week, having qualified Monday unless exempt. A few young amateur stars failed to pass the test.

Qualifying rounds in 16 of 17 districts of the country saw 25 golfers earn the right to compete at Chicago. Twenty more, the Chicago district's quota, remained to be determined Monday. The other 22 places are already taken by these exempt from the qualifying test. This latter group includes Tommy Armour, the defending champion, Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Archie Compston, Arthur Havers, Harry Cooper, Bill Mithorn and other leading stars who finished among the first 20 at Lakewood in 1927.

Several entrants from other nations also were exempt from the test.

Wrightstown-Combined Locks (post)

Little Chute and Appleton kept pace as leaders in the Intercounty Baseball League Sunday, each winning a one-sided struggle from a strong rival. The Chutes blanked Oneda, 9-0, with Stoffel hurling five-hit ball, and Appleton swamped Freedom when Stenagale allowed only four hits. The wins kept the Chutesmen on top with a clean slate and held Appleton in second with a 4-1 mark, a game from the top.

DePere coasted into a lone third place, a game from Appleton with a hard-fought 9-8 win over the battling Hebel's Corners team and aided by the fact that Wrightstown, tied for third with the DePeremen before the Sunday games, was idle. The Wrights were carded to play Combined Locks.

While Stoffel held Oneda to five hits his mates garnered ten off swamp. The Chutes made two errors and Oneda four. Evers caught for the winners and Sommers for the losers. Appleton got eight hits off Verbeten and Freedom helped the Athletics by six errors. The Appleton men made two. Welhouse handled Verbeten and Grover and Horn took a care of Stenagale's shots.

DePere won by bunting his hits and taking advantage of every enemy misplay. For the Cornersmen outbatted the winners by six bingles, 16-10, and each team had four errors, though the losers' proved much more costly. Drew and Falek formed the losing end. Grover and Anderson and Kellerman that of DePere.

SCHLAFER PLAYERS BEAT MENASHA NINE
Appleton Boys Bunch Hits to Whip Pail City Eagles, 9-5

Bunching their hits and taking advantage of everyone of their opponents errors, the Schlafer Hardware Co. nine defeated the Menasha Eagles, 9 to 5 Sunday at the Lakview diamond, Neenah.

Four errors and a walk followed by a hit gave the Schlafers a four run lead in the first inning. The Eagles got two of them back on a double and another on a single. The hit in the second but the Hardware came back and sewed up the game with three runs in the third on three hits, a walk and an error.

The Hardware got their remaining scores in the sixth and seventh, one runner scoring on two hits and an error in the sixth and another on a hit, sacrifice and error in the seventh. The Eagles got their third run in the fifth on three walks and two hits, their fourth in the seventh on three hits and their last in the ninth on a hit, walk, fielders choice and an error.

Schlafer's pounded two Eagle pitchers for fourteen singles while they were only getting nine scattered blows off C. F. Buss of the Hardware team.

C. Buss walked seven men and struck out seven while Becker and Fenske walked five and struck out five. The Eagles made seven errors, all of which counted in scoring while the Hardware made two, none of which effected the scores.

HELPS CARDS

Wally Rottger

Any guy whose batting keeps around the .350 mark is good enough to play on a major league club, and that's why Wally Rottger is in there every day for the St. Louis Cards. Rottger came off the Illinois campus just a few seasons ago and is playing regularly for the first time this season. From the looks of things he will be in there for a long time. He's a good fielder, too.

GERMAN GROUP MAPS AIR ROUTE TO PEKIN

Aviation Interests Hope to Establish Service Across Continent

Peking —(AP)—Agents of German aviation interests are in Peking trying to enlist Chang Tso-lin's regime in ambitious plans for an air service between North China and Europe.

The Luftthansa seeks Peking's co-operation in establishing landing fields and repair depots here, in Manchuria and on the Siberian border. A regular schedule for mail, passenger and light freight services is projected.

This is the second attempt of the German group to interest the North China authorities in such a scheme, designed to reduce greatly the longest overland travel route in the world. Sven Hedin, one of the foremost of Central Asiatic explorers came to Peking in 1927 with German air pilots to fly across Mongolia and Turkestan to prove the feasibility of such a route. Permission for the flight was refused by the Peking government, however and Hedin set out by camel caravan to make accurate maps and meteorological observations for a Central Asiatic air route. He was last reported in Chinese Turkestan, preparing to continue to Europe across Siberia.

OFFICIALS HOLD CEREMONY TO SOOTHE ANGRY SPIRITS

Tokyo —(AP)—Despite the fact that the head of Taira-no-Masakado, a revolt against the government, was removed a thousand years ago by the lord high executioner, it seems that his spirit has been causing all sorts of trouble to the finance ministry at Otemachi.

The ministry noted that Finance Minister Hayami died shortly after assuming the portfolio, that Dr. Y. Iwashiro, chief of engineering, passed and that 30 or 40 officials had become invalids within a few years.

Investigation disclosed that the finance building, a temporary structure erected after the 1923 earthquake, had been built squarely on top of Masakado's grave, at the site of the old shrine of Miyojin.

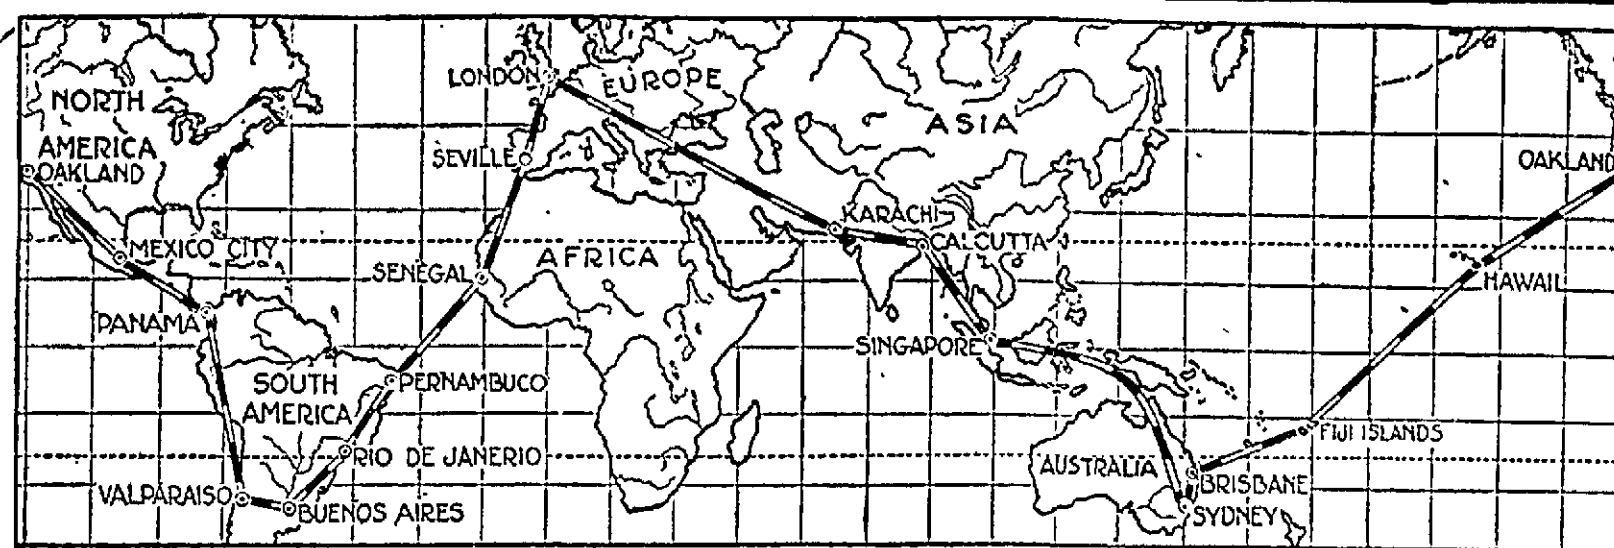

The conclusion was obvious. All the bad luck was the result of the rebel's spirit resenting the building over his resting place.

As the building could not be torn down, the officials of the ministry held a solemn religious service to appease the indignant spirit. In addition to the ceremony in the finance building, Buddhist rites were performed at the Nichirin Temple at Shibasakicho.

If the spirit has any consideration the Japanese now believe he will overlook the insult and permit the finance administration to proceed in peace.

the trans-Siberian railway. The projected air service would cut that time in half or less.

PLAN HOP AROUND WORLD FOR SOUTHERN CROSS

The four occupants of the trans-Pacific monoplane Southern Cross plan to spend a brief time in Australia and then continue around the world, according to recent reports. This map shows their tentative route. Starting from Oakland, California, they spanned the Pacific ocean, via Hawaii and the Fiji Islands. From Sydney, after a stop at Brisbane, they plan to fly over the Dutch East Indies, probably by way of Singapore to Calcutta; thence their route would take them to Karachi and across Europe to London. From London they would drop down to Seville, Spain, and thence to Senegal, Africa. At Senegal they would begin another ocean hop, to Pernambuco, Brazil, flying next to Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires. Then would come a hazardous flight across the Andes, probably to Valparaiso, followed by a trip up over Panama to Mexico City. The last hop would take them from Mexico City back to Oakland, the starting place.

WARN AGAINST BOGUS FEDERAL RESERVE NOTE

Postal authorities here have been warned to be on the lookout for a counterfeit $10 federal reserve note which is in circulation. The note is drawn on the federal reserve bank of San Francisco, Calif., of 1914 series, check letter H, has an indistinct face plate number believed to be 219. The back plate number is 1453 and the note is signed by Frank White, treasurer of the United States, and A. W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury and bears the portrait of Andrew Jackson. The counterfeit is easily discernible of anyone used to handling bills. It is said, because of the poor etching and ink. The serial number is L35635660A.

TEN PIECE ORCHESTRA WAVERLY — TONIGHT

DAVID LAWRENCE TO DIRECT REPORTERS AT PARTY CONVENTIONS

David Lawrence, special correspondent for The Post-Crescent on national affairs, has been chosen to organize and direct the reporters who will assemble at the news of the convention at Kansas City and Houston for broadcasting.

Mr. Lawrence is sending his regular daily dispatches interpreting and analyzing the events but will take his turn at the microphone to describe the scenes in the convention halls. He was selected to take charge of the news-broadcasting and descriptive work because of his long experience as a political writer and has been a radio speaker for the last two years. He has been awarded a weekly radio talk on Government for a national broadcasting company.

APPLETON YOUTH RANKS HIGH AT WEST POINT

John Stewart Mills, son of Dr. and Mrs. N. P. Mills who graduated from West Point military academy. Saturday has been assigned as a second lieutenant with an artillery unit according to the current issue of the Army and Navy list. Lt. Mills ranked thirty-fourth in his class of 261 men. Edward A. Hannequin, another Appleton youth, who graduated from Annapolis last week ranked nineteenth in his class of 173 men.

PAPER COMPANY'S PARK OPEN TO USE

Interlake Officials Undecided About Giving Grounds to City

Whether Interlake park in the lower Fourth ward will be turned over to the city for a public park as was talked of last year, will be decided this summer in a conference between C. K. Boyer, manager of the company's mill here and Interlake officials at Wisconsin Rapids, according to reports. The move to turn the park over to the city was started last year.

In the meantime, however, the park has been cleaned up and placed in good condition open to anyone who wants to use it. The baseball diamonds has been put in condition, the old grandstand torn down and bleachers built to replace it a back stop was erected and the old sign boards have been removed from around the property.

Dr. James R. Scott, former Appleton resident, was recently elected to the city council at Chula Vista, Calif., according to word received by local friends.

Miss Margaret McDermott, Kenosha, and Miss Viola Noll, Monday returned to their homes in Milwaukee, after spending the weekend with friends here.

GIRL ALONE

NEA SERVICE

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Ward of the state orphanage since she is four, SALLY FORD, is "famed out" to CLEM CARSON the summer she is 16, and meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student, working on the Carson farm. When Carson makes remarks about David's friendship for Sally, David hits him. They run away and join a carnival. David as cotton picker and Sally as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer. In Capital City, location of the orphanage, Sally is recognized when the orphans troop in, accompanied by a beautiful "Lady Bountiful." GUS, the Barker, directs attention to Sally. Sally saves. Sally learns from ARTHUR VAN HORNE, handsome easterner visiting in Capital City, that the "Lady Bountiful" is ENID BARR, wife of a wealthy New Yorker.

In another state Sally and David go about the streets without fear of being detected by the police. David gives Sally a sapphire engagement ring. MRS. STONE, matron of the orphanage, gets word that Sally is with the carnival and she travels to the next state to bring her back. Gus sees her jerk the veil from Sally's face and gives a signal. During a melee in which Mrs. Stone is accused of stealing a purse and is taken away by a "schiller" sheriff, Sally escapes. Hastening to David she tells him what has happened and he agrees they must run away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

"Oh, let's say goodbye to the carnival!" Sally cried, homesickness for the dearest "family" she had ever known already tightening her throat with tears.

And so they passed, hand in hand, on the crest of the little hill which rose at the end of Main Street, on which Winfield Bybee's Bigger and Better Carnival was selling temporary joy and excitement to villagers and farmers weary of the insular monotony of their lives.

There it all lay just below them—big tents and little tents with gay, lying banners; the merry-go-round with its music-box grinding out "Sweet Rosie O'Grady"; the ferris wheel a gigantic loop of lights. The composite voice of the carnival came up to these two children of carnival who were deserting it, and the roar, muted slightly by distance, was like the music of a heavenly choir in their ears.

"Listen!" Sally whispered, her fingers closing tensely over David's arm. "Gus, hallowing the Palace of Wonders. I wonder if he'll remember not to spout about 'Princess Lalla.'"

They could see him, a small figure from that distance, looking like a Jack-in-the-box as he waved his arms and thundered the dear, familiar phrases which Sally would never forget if she lived to be a hundred.

She was about to run back down the hill but David strode after her and put his arms around her comfortingly. "Sally, honey, we haven't time! Throw them a kiss from here and then we've got to hurry away."

She broke from his embrace and flung her arms out in a passionate gesture of love and farewell. "Goodbye, Carnival. Thank you for sheltering David and me! Goodbye, Pop Bybee and Mrs. Bybee! Goodbye, Gus! Goodbye, Jan. Goodbye, Nikolai Goodbye, Bebe! And Bebe! Goodbye, dancing minstrel! I hope you all land on Broadway with Zigfield! Oh, goodbye, Flitty King, dear little Betty! Goodbye, goodbye!" Then she flung herself upon David's breast and held him tight with all the strength in her thin young arms. "I've only got you now, David! Oh, David, what is going to become of us? Do you really love me, darling?"

She strained away from him, to search his beloved face as well as the darkness of the night would permit.

Faintly she could see the tremble of his tender, deeply carved lips, so dearly boyish. His eyes looked big and black in the night, but there was a gleam of such divine light in them that her fingers crept up his face tremblingly and closed his eyelids, for she suddenly felt abashed, unworthy of his love.

"I love you with every cell in my body, every thought in my mind and every beat of my heart," David answered huskily. "And now let's travel, honey. I don't know where we're going, but we've got to put as much distance as possible between us and this town before morning."

But before they set off again he kissed her, not one of the long, ardent kisses that made her dizzy and frightened even as they exalted her, but a shy, sweet touching of his lips to her forehead. It was as if he were telling her, wordlessly, that she would be utterly safe with him through the long, dark hours ahead of them.

The did not talk much as they walked steadily along the dirt roads, choosing in preference to the freer, more quiet paved highway, for David cautioned her to save her breath for the all-important task of covering many miles before daylight. Neither of them had any idea of the geography of this state to which the carnival had brought them, but they felt that it mattered little. David, country-bred, had an instinct for direction. He had chosen to turn toward the seat, and Sally trotted along by his side, supremely confident that he would lead her out of danger.

"One o'clock, darling," he announced at last, when Sally was so tired that she could hardly put one foot before the other. "We'll rest awhile and then plod along. There's a farmhouse near. See the cows lined up by the fence? We'll find a well and have a drink."

A three-quarters moon rode high in the sky but its light was intermittently obscured by ragged, scudding clouds. When they had had their drink of ice-cold eastern water David made a pillow of his coat which he had been carrying over his arm, and forced Sally to lie down for a while in the soft loam of a recently ploughed field.

He sat at a little distance from her, not touching her, his knees drawn up and clasped by his state, tanned hands, but his head was thrown back and his eyes brooded upon the cloud-disturbed beauty of the night sky.

"Does your shoulder hurt, darling?" Sally asked anxiously.

"No," he answered, without looking at her. "It's all healed. Just a flesh wound, you know."

The tone of his voice silenced her. She knew he was brooding over their future, puzzling his young head as to what he was to do with her, and she lay still, humble before his masculinity.

"I've been thinking, Sally," he said at last, gently. "First, we'll get married in the morning, or as soon as we find a county seat, and then—"

"But David," Sally sat up, her heart pounding with joy, but her mind unexpectedly clear and logical. "We mustn't, darling. You've got to finish college, somehow, somewhere. I can't bear to be a burden upon you! You're so young, so young!"

"I'm going to take care of you," David answered steadily. "We love each other and I think we always will. My father married when he was only twenty-two—and big for my age," he added, grinning at her. "We can't go on like this, honey. Mrs. Stone would have a right to think the worst of us—if we were not married when she catches up with us. She would be justified in thinking that Clem Carson told the truth to the police when he charged us with—"

"—with immorality. Don't you see, darling, that we just must be married now?"

"Then I'll run away by myself!" Sally flashed at him, springing to her feet. "I'm not going to have you forced into marriage when you're not old enough and not really ready for it. You'd hate me for being a drag on you—"

"Sally!" David was on his feet now and his stern voice checked her before she had run a dozen steps away from him. "Come here. Listen to me. She crept into his arms, and laid her head against his chest, so that his heart beat strongly and steadily just beneath her ear.

"Listen, Sally, beloved," he urged softly. "I want to marry you more than anything in the world. It might have been better if we had met and fallen in love when we were both old, but fate took care of that for us, and I'm only proud and happy to be able to ask you now to marry me. I'll not make much money at first, and Sally trotted along by his side, supremely confident that he would lead her out of danger.

"You'll have to do about your age, honey," David interrupted her thoughts, his voice grave and, it seemed to her, a little embarrassed. Maybe David, too, was frightened a bit just as she was. That made it easier. She was suddenly jubilantly glad that he was not wise and sophisticated and very much older than she, like Arthur Van Horne, for instance.

"I'll have to say I'm 18, won't I?" she laughed. "Do I look 18, David? Now most girls have bobbed hair, my long hair ought to make me look very old and dignified. I do look 18, don't I, David?"

"Oh, Sally!" David stopped abruptly and held her close to him, pitying, maybe, but neither of us has been used a great deal, and I promise you now that I'll not fail you in love and loyalty. I've never cared for any other girl and I never will. Let's not try to look too far ahead. We're young and strong and in love. Isn't that enough, sweet?"

"Then let's travel," he laughed jubilantly. "This is our wedding day, Sally! Think of it, sweet! Our wedding day!"

"Yes," she agreed, nodding her head against his breast.

As they plodded hand in hand through the long hours before dawn

Sally thought of nothing else. She was glad that walking made talking a waste of energy, for she wanted to think and feel and search her heart and soul for treasure to lavish upon the boy-man, she was to marry.

Marriage! The word made her feel shivery and solemn and more than a little frightened, but when a shudder of fear made her hand twitch in David's, the firm, warm pressure of his fingers reassured her. She resolutely forced her mind away from mysteries that lay ahead of her, mysteries at which Mrs. Stone had hinted in that last, embarrassing lecture she had delivered to a cowering, shame-faced Sally the day Clem Carson had taken her to the farm. Whatever lay before her, David would be with her, gentle, sweet, infinitely tender—

"I'll be Mrs. David Nash," she told herself childishly. "I'll be David's wife. I'll have David for my family, and maybe—some day—there'll be a baby David, with hair like gold in the sun—"

"You'll have to do about your age, honey," David interrupted her thoughts, his voice grave and, it seemed to her, a little embarrassed. Maybe David, too, was frightened a bit just as she was. That made it easier. She was suddenly jubilantly glad that he was not wise and sophisticated and very much older than she, like Arthur Van Horne, for instance.

"I'll have to say I'm 18, won't I?" she laughed. "Do I look 18, David? Now most girls have bobbed hair, my long hair ought to make me look very old and dignified. I do look 18, don't I, David?"

"Oh, Sally!" David stopped abruptly and held her close to him, pitying, maybe, but neither of us has been used a great deal, and I promise you now that I'll not fail you in love and loyalty. I've never cared for any other girl and I never will. Let's not try to look too far ahead. We're young and strong and in love. Isn't that enough, sweet?"

"Then let's travel," he laughed jubilantly. "This is our wedding day, Sally! Think of it, sweet! Our wedding day!"

"Yes," she agreed, nodding her head against his breast.

As they plodded hand in hand through the long hours before dawn

When we feel like it. I think we make good hoboes, don't you?"

"Not at this rate," David laughed, relieved. "I'm not going to kiss you a single other time before dawn, or we'll never get anywhere. And don't you try to vamp me, you little witch!"

He did not quite keep his promise, for when Sally became so tired about four o'clock in the morning that she could walk no further, he picked her up in his big-muscled young arms, and walked into the dawn with her, and of course the best antidote for fatigue and sleepiness was an occasional kiss on her drooping eyelids or upon her babyishly lax, pink little mouth.

When the sun came up they were a little shy with each other, inclined to talk rapidly about trivial things.

"Canfield—two miles," David read from a sign post at a cross-roads. "I'm going to ask that truck driver the name of the nearest county seat, and how to get there."

Sally watched him proudly as he ran swiftly, apparently not at all fatigued after seven hours of hiking, to halt a dairy truck approaching along the state highway. The sun was in his tousled chestnut hair, turning it into gold, and the bigness and splendor of his body thrilled her to sudden tears of joy that he was hers—hers. Her heart offered up a prayer: "Please God, don't let anything happen so that we can't be married today! Please!"

(To Be Continued)

The marriage license is obtained in the next chapter. Will Sally's dream come true?

When David Lawrence sits down to the typewriter he hasn't a friend in the world—nor an enemy. His only counselors are facts and his only mentor, experience.

It is this non-partisanship, plus the knowledge of his subject, that has made David Lawrence the most widely read correspondent on National Affairs in America.

In the decade that David Lawrence has written his daily dispatch for the Consolidated Press his reputation for unbiased and authoritative writing has brought him a continuously increasing prestige. His contacts and his activities have steadily widened, but every undertaking to which he has put his hand shows clearly the same indelible mark.

When he founded the United States Daily he printed as an "ear" on its first page "all the facts, no opinion." That is still its motto and always will be. When he was invited to give a weekly talk on Government by the National Broadcasting Company he hewed to the same line. After a year's broadcasting the invitation was renewed because the comment of the fans acclaimed this quality. "Eminently fair" is the recurring phrase in the thousands of letters received.

Through years of broadening horizons and multiplying interests David Lawrence's chosen task has remained the same: to get and write the big national story of the day.

FARM NAME MAKES IMPRESSION WITH CITY CUSTOMERS

CORRECT SELECTION OF TITLE MEANS LOT IN SELLING PRODUCE

Best to Avoid the Common-Place and Dignity Should Not Be Overlooked

BY ELSWORTH BUNCE

If you live on a farm or are interested in one you will want to think of a name that just fits the place. There is something about any well chosen name that makes one upon hearing it picture the farm, not only as a pleasant place to live, but also as a reliable place at which to buy superior farm products.

Wouldn't you prefer to buy Sunny-side eggs, put up in attractive cartons; than to buy just eggs out of a basket standing on the grocer's counter? In fact, I am sure you would gladly pay a premium for the Sunny-side eggs. You would know that they are worth more to you, for you would be sure each egg will be fresh and good. The owner of Sunny-side farm wouldn't want to hurt his reputation by slipping in those found in an abandoned nest or in a strawstack.

In choosing a farm name it is best to avoid the commonplace. Dignity, of course, should not be overlooked. There is little place for trivial, foolish or cheap creation such as we sometimes find, decorating summer cottages. Remember that the farm name may be handed down with the farm from father to son like the family coat of arms in the days of old, so that there is little place for an undignified name. "Dew drop in," "Star O'Mine" and "Bide a While" are out of place as well as such names as "World's Greatest Farm."

Here are some Wisconsin farm names which are already in use and which illustrate the possibilities within the bounds of both cleverness and good taste and which are being used with profit. There is Verdandale, Green Acres and Brookhill, which suggest home and fertile fields. A traveler is desirous of stopping at Sunny-side to buy fresh farm produce. Quality products from Cloverdale in many instances may bring higher prices than those from old man Smith's place. The stockman seeks out Greenway Grove and Creamland, while the man "down on a cartoon" of eggs is added reason for the housewife to feel sure that they are better.

The tourist may care to tarry at Beacon Hill or Nine Mound view to look over the promising landscape and who wouldn't want to spend a night at Sunset Point or Maplecourt.

Family names have been cleverly used in Frenchville, Craig Knoll, Laramore and Brannville, and apparently Kettle Range and Castle Rock owe their names to their surroundings.

Local history is a fertile source of names. If you cannot draw upon old settlers and neighborhood legends, the officials of the Wisconsin Historical Society at Madison will be glad to furnish you with information.

Your own name may be one that with good taste be used to name your farm or may be combined with some other significant name to form one that will be entirely original. For example Bell Farm is the name of a widely known dairy establishment. And stockmen will eagerly soon at McKerrrow Farms to do honor to their owner.

Iowa farm was given its name from the state, Iowa, combined with the proprietor's wife's name Anna. "Pearl" is derived from the first names of the owner and his wife, Earl and Mary.

Walworth, a well known Wisconsin farm, was derived from the abbreviation of Walworth County. Wisconsin farm was derived from the Illinois Shorthorn establishment, was named by combining the names of the owner's son and daughter, Edward and Ellen.

Sometimes foreign names may be appropriately called upon in naming a farm, particularly where the blood of cattle kept comes from the country from which the breed is taken. The name Balmoral was taken from across the Atlantic. It is the quaint and picturesque Scotch home of British royalty amid the heather moors of Ayrshire.

Dutchland farms immediately calls up a picture of big black and white cows grazing in a lovely pasture with Dutch windmills dotting the landscape and such is the actual scene that greets the visitor to this Massachusetts farm.

Occasionally there is unintentional duplication of names. Difficulties begin to arise when these come to be of national importance. There should be two Percheron horse breeders transacting business under the farm name, Maple Grove, or two Jersey breeders of prominence using the farm name Meritdale would indeed be a duplication certain to cause considerable confusion.

There are three ways of avoiding such trouble: copyrighting the name at the United States Patent Office at Washington having the association of the livestock which you are breeding record the name for your use, and recording it with the county register of deeds.

In his book Rude Rural Rhymes, Bob Adams offers this advice on naming the farm:

Mary's Beauty, a purebred Brown Swiss, produced 1,791 pounds of milk and 72.2 pounds of fat. The second high herd, owned by Edward Kluge, consists of 11 registered Holsteins. The milk average of Mr. Kluge's herd was 1,223 pounds of milk with a fat average of 41.3 pounds. The second high cow in the association, also is owned by Mr. Kluge. She produced 1,000 pounds of milk and 60.8 pounds of fat. Thirty herds, containing 452 cows, were tested. The average butter fat was 28.1 pounds and average herd milk 763 pounds.

LADY FARMER

Out on R. 4, Seymour, Mrs. Emma Lotter and her 17-year-old son have the job of running a 160 acre farm and they're doing a good job of it, too. All of this in spite of the fact that she was severely injured in an auto accident several years ago.

MRS. EMMA LOTTER ONLY OUTGAMIE-CO FARMER OF HER SEX

She and 17-year-old Son Till Farm Near Seymour and Do a Good Job of It

BY W. F. WINSEY

Seymour—"I do not need a big house and in fact I have no time to keep my small house as neat and clean as I should," said Mrs. Emma Lotter, route 4, who is the only woman in Outagamie-co who manages a 160 acre farm and who, with the aid of a 17-year old son, does all the work in doors and out.

"Milking and holding the plow are the hardest kinds of farm work I have to do but I have no choice and must take things as they come," continued Mrs. Lotter. "I like to do all kinds of farm work but the effects of an automobile accident I was in several years ago makes it almost impossible for me to do some of the work. But my health is improving and in a short time I expect to be stronger and fit to do the hardest kind of work."

Mrs. Lotter's farm duties begin at 4:30 o'clock in the morning. She takes a fifteen minutes nap after dinner and retires at 9:00 o'clock in the evening. Although her hours are very long, by shifting from one duty to another and following a regular daily program, she is able to recuperate with the change and to finish the day in fairly good physical condition.

The most astonishing thing about Mrs. Lotter is that she is doing her work better than scores of her male competitors and weighs only 102 pounds. Notwithstanding her slight frame and delicate health, Mrs. Lotter said that she likes her work very much. Since her husband's death in 1926, Mrs. Lotter has planted and harvested one crop and has planted another crop this spring. On account of physical injury she can ride no farm machinery but she drives one of two farm teams, plowing with a hand plow, cultivating, dragging and seeding. She loads bundles of grain and does the mowing. She drives the team in the loading of hay and takes care of the hay in the barn. She shoos the grain after the binder and corals the hay. This spring she did a large part of the seeding while her son was repairing fences. Beside all these outside duties, Mrs. Lotter prepares the meals and does the other work of housekeeping.

This spring, the Lotters sowed 8 acres of oats, 5 acres of barley, 2 acres of flax, and 3 acres of field peas. They planted a half acre of potatoes and 12 acres of corn. They have 16 acres of timothy and alsike meadow and 40 acres of wild pasture.

Their main line of farm activity is dairying with a herd of 23 grade cows and 17 heifers. They are milking but will soon be milking 21. They have 9 hogs and 70 hens.

"After we get more cows we shall do very much better" as both of us like dairying and dairying pays better than any other kind of farming," concluded Mrs. Lotter.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS GOING TO MADISON

Week of June 13-18 Promises to Be a Big One; Programs for Each Day

BY W. F. WINSEY

According to a recent announcement addressed to county agents and other 4-H Club leaders of Wisconsin, the nineteenth annual 4-H Club week at the University of Wisconsin for boys and girls and their leaders is to run from June 13 to 18, both dates inclusive.

"Two types of educational and instructional programs are arranged," says the announcement, "one a leadership course for club leaders and older club members, and the second, a course for all 4-H club boys and girls who can attend."

"Entering features and tours to interesting places about the city will be arranged. Attendance at the University graduation will be a pleasure."

"There is no registration or program fee. Board and room will cost $1.00 per day for the entire period or $12.50 for three days or less."

"Girls will sleep in the University high school building. Boys will sleep in the new Men's Dormitory. All will eat under the big tent. Swimming and games will be supervised. A representative of the athletic department will direct. A boat ride will be given but it will not cost very much. All 4-H club members may attend, particularly older members. Bring along with you at least two blankets. Cots are furnished but no bedding is furnished by the university. Other things to bring are swimming suit, towels, soap, toothbrush, gym shoes, and track and gym suit, if you have such. Baseball glove or mitt, happy disposition, cheery smile, and lots of pep."

A very elaborate daily program has been arranged.

SEYMOUR FAIR PREMIUM LIST BEING DISTRIBUTED

Seymour—The new premium list of the Seymour Fair August 20, 21, 22, 23, is out and is ready for distribution, according to George H. Fiedler, secretary. A copy may be had by personal request, or a postal card will bring one through the mail. The list is run by a board of fair, always not as the best, is offering Nightly Hazzerty's Revue with a change of program each night. Other attractions are the Joe Mandia Trio, The Flying Fishers, the Savilla Trio, the Victor LaSalle and Loretta Four, the Mace and Pals, and the Palace Trio.

These special attractions alone or in combination with the exhibits, track events, and other works will provide the public with entertainment ever enjoyed in this part of the state.

SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN TO 4-H CLUB GIRLS

Assistant Club Leader Lays Down Rules by Which They May Be Won

BY W. F. WINSEY

All 4-H Club girls desiring to enter the home economics course of the University must write stories on "My 4-H Club Work and My Future," and mail it with applications to Dean J. A. James, College of Agriculture, Madison, together with photographs and references. Miss Elizabeth Salter, assistant club leader, is mailing the following statement with reference to 4-H club taking up work in Home Economics in the College of Agriculture.

"The active and alumnae members of Phi Upsilon Omicron, the honorary professional home economics sorority, have made available three scholarships of $50 each, for 4-H Club girls who are entering as freshmen in the home economics department at the University of Wisconsin. The purpose of these scholarships is to aid 4-H Club girls who are planning to enter the home economics department through school scholarship. This is a period of adjustment to new work and environment and it is at this time that financial help may be most appreciated. These scholarships are available for the fall of 1928."

"The committee in charge of the selection of girls to be awarded these honor consists of J. A. James, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, Miss Hazel Manning and Miss Lita Bane of the Home Economics Department. The committee has made plans for the awarding of the scholarships as follows: A 4-H Club girl desiring to enter the Home Economics course this fall shall write a story on the subject 'My 4-H Club Work and My Future.' This should be in the applicant's own hand writing. In this story at least the following three points should be discussed: (1) What I have done in 4-H Club; (2) Why I want to make my future in home economics; (3) Reason the scholarship is desired."

"Each girl who wishes to secure a scholarship is asked to write a letter to Dean J. A. James, College of Agriculture, Madison, stating her interest in the scholarship and indicating when the essay will be forwarded to the college. It is asked that a photograph be sent with this letter. Also give the names of three or five persons who know her well, such as the county agent, a state club leader, the pastor, a former teacher, a business man, or a neighbor."

MARKET PRICES TO FARMERS

Madison (AP)—The state department of markets finds that butter prices during the week just closing were higher than a year ago, that cheese prices were in like condition, hogs fluctuating and cattle higher.

The review of the week's markets follows:

Local supplies featured the butter markets during the past week. Supplies were particularly heavy during the middle of the week. Buyers were free sellers especially on the medium and lower scores but buyers showed very little interest and trade was slow. Fancy-butter which in most instances was held by buyers was unwilling to pay. Towards the end of the week several fractional price declines took place. Cold storage holdings of butter at the four principal markets on June 11 amounted to 7,773,596 pounds as compared with 17,280,655 pounds on the same week last year. Centralized car market supplies were fairly liberal but buyers were conservative and trade was slow. Butter prices are 12 cents higher than last year at this time.

Cheese trading was fair but lacking snap. Buyers seemed to be disposed to test out the situation and the bulk of the business was limited to small-sized orders. Cold storage holdings of cheese at the four principal markets on June 7 amounted to 7,522,156 pounds as compared with 9,655,025 pounds on the same week last year. Cheese prices are 12 cents higher than last year at this time.

Frequent fluctuations characterized the hog markets during the past week. Prices declined on the first day of the week, regained the loss at mid-week, and gain declined on the last day of the week as a result of usually heavy receipts. At the close of the week better grade hogs scaling 160 pounds and up were 10c higher as compared with one week lower, and pigs 25c higher. The sharp price declines on hogs scaling under 150 pounds is ascribed to a narrow shipping demand. There was an active demand for the relatively light supply of choice hogs. Hog prices are about $1.35 higher than last year at this time.

Cattle prices are about $2.52 higher and sheep about 23 cents lower than last year at this time.

PLACE REGULATIONS ON MINERAL FEEDS

Madison (AP)—Mineral feeds or mixtures must carry a guarantee of the maximum salt content under a new regulation of the state department of agriculture.

In the past, the department has required the label a declaration of the minimum salt content. The new regulation also sets a maximum phosphoric acid, salt and iodine, besides listing the ingredients used in compounding the mixture.

The department expressed a belief that the new ruling will decrease the percentage of relatively cheap ingredients in the feed mixtures.

As we feel it is inconvenient for some of our customers to shop other than Saturday nights we will keep our store open for them on Saturday nights, as usual. Store closed on Friday night.—J. C. Penny Co.

GIVES STATEMENT ON CONTROLLING WEEDS IN SOYBEAN FIELDS

College of Agriculture Man Says Harrow, Weeder and Rotary Hoe May Be Used

BY W. F. WINSEY

In the following statement, G. M. Briggs, soybean specialist of the College of Agriculture, gives several of the most effective methods of controlling weeds in soybean fields. A number of farmers have lost their alfalfa and clover seedlings through winterkilling and are resorting to soybeans as emergency hay crops, the suggestions of Mr. Briggs will be very helpful to these beginners and to others of more or less experience in the raising of soybeans.

"Soybean fields can be kept clean by the use of a harrow, weeder, or rotary hoe, if used at the proper time," says Mr. Briggs. "A large amount of weeds can be easily destroyed by use of any one of these implements when soybeans are from two to six inches high. On a field free from stalks or trash, the weeder or harrow does an excellent job of taking out weeds if used in the hottest part of the day, when plants are limp. In fact they stand more abuse than corn and even if a horse steps on the plants, it is surprising how they are up the next morning as bright as ever."

"It is surprising how straight the harrow teeth can be set and used acrosswise of the rows or kitty-corner of a seeded solid field. Experiments have been carried out determining loss of plants and value of different systems of cultivating to soybean fields and while there may be some plants destroyed in addition to weeds, yet when plants are three to five inches high, if the operator is careful, not letting too much trash collect, just as amazing results can be realized."

"The rotary hoe is also being used in a small way by some farmers, and a field of soybeans, regardless of previous preparation of soil, can be greatly benefited by its use. In states to our south this machine is used to a large extent in caring for the bean crop."

"While cultivation of a field may be necessary if planted in rows, yet harrows or weeders in addition to one of the rows will take out the small weeds and do great saving over the cultivator costs."

"Some farmers report that they have even used the weeder when plants are a foot in height, but any farmer can determine when damage is too great."

SUDAN GRASS NEEDS LONG TIME TO DRY

Proves to Be a Valuable Crop in Places Where Others Were Winterkilled

BY W. F. WINSEY

Hay crops in this section will be very short this season. Much of the alfalfa and clover were winterkilled or injured by cold weather and lack of rains this spring. To counteract the losses, some farmers are seeding emergency hay crops of soybeans and Sudan grass.

"As a cold soil does not favor the growth of Sudan grass, there is nothing to be gained through the early seedings of the crop," says G. B. Mortimer, College of Agriculture. "Numerous trials at the experimental farms have shown that seedings made from about the middle of May to the middle of June gave the greatest hay return. A serious effect of early seedings is rapid weed development, due to the slow growth of Sudan grass. Seedings have been made as late as the first week in July with good results."

"Sudan grass is easily made into a bright, lanky and palatable hay," continues Mr. Mortimer. In good haying weather, it may be cut in the morning and raked up the next day. Owing to the coarseness of the stems, they do not dry out as quickly as do the leaves and unless one is careful the hay may be stacked in the barns when it is too moist. Care should be taken to see that the stems are sufficiently dry before the hay is stored, otherwise heating will result. The hay may be dried thoroughly without fear of losing the leaves."

"Although Sudan grass will produce a second cutting in sections where the growing season is sufficiently long, but one crop can be expected in Wisconsin. It should, therefore, be allowed to make the most desirable growth before cutting."

Book Of Knowledge

Greek Battles

The Greeks evidently had two types of vessels—warships and commercial craft. The warship was long and narrow with three tiers of oars. Sometimes there were as many as 170 oarsmen in a vessel and the sail was used very little. These vessels used their beaks as rams to destroy the enemy. One of the Greek warships is pictured here.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

Greek commercial ships were double-ended and flat-bottomed and depended upon large square sails rather than oars.

The Greeks became powerful at sea, but their control was threatened by Xerxes, the Persian, whose ambitions led him into conflict with them.

Xerxes, at the head of 1200 ships, led an attack against the Greeks. The Greeks had only 378 triremes, but defeated the Persians through their greater knowledge of seafaring and skill in handling their craft. The Greeks knew how to tack, that is sail against the wind, and could navigate such strong tides as those of the Dardanelles. (To Be Continued)
